Council delays curfew action

The City Council Monday night made a preliminary move toward lowering the curfew age from 18 to 17 years old.

The council ordered City Attorney Kenneth Dement to draw up an ordinance changing the present law. Final action will not be taken until the Jan. 2 meeting.

The action came after a delegation of students appeared before the council requesting the age limit be dropped one year and that the curfew hours be extended on Friday and Saturday night.

The council refused to go along with extending the curfew from midnight to 1 a.m., but some councilmen indicated that if the young people could handle the lowered age responsibility, they would be willing to consider changing the hours at a later date.

The students said the age should be lowered to 17 because a 17-year -old caught on a curfew violation would have to stand trial as an adult.

Furthermore, the students said most 17-year-olds are in their final year of school and should be given more responsibility in preparation for going on to college or out to work.

The council indicated it would like to hear comments from parents at the next meeting.

The council wrestled with the subject of solid waste disposal Monday night, but again reached no conclusions on the problem.

The city's disposal site is rapidly being filled and dumping by nonresidents has been banned.

The federal government has ordered the city or county to come up with a plan within seven months and have a sanitary landfill in operation by 1974.

The Bootheel Regional Planning Commission has suggested putting area - wide landfill sites in the Dexter and Bloomfield area and in the hills between Morley and Benton.

County Court Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn told the council the best solution would be for a private firm to open the landfill, thus saving the county considerable expense.

Hearing set in assault case

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 9 in Magistrate Court today for Ardean (Smokey) Johnson of Route One who faces charges of felonious assault.

Bond was set at $500 by Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Johnson is charged with assualting his wife with a butcher knife Monday morning. She was stabbed in the right arm and was sent to a St. Louis hospital for treatment.

Johnny Lee (Bobby) Harris of Cape Girardeau was arraigned on charges of stealing and destruction of private property. Bond was set at $6,000.

Harris is alleged to have stolen a leather jacket from Graber's Department Store on Jan. 5, 1970, and to have broken a window in Homestead Distributing Co. on Jan. 1, 1970.

He has been a fugitive and was recently arrested in Elkhart, Ind.

A preliminary hearing will be held Dec. 19 for Leslie Achter of Charleston, charged with stealing appliances from the Henry Claycomb home in Charleston on Oct. 8.

Robert Todd of Benton was ordered to serve to one year in county jail when his parole was revoked for failure to pay restitution.

Louis Van Montjoy, 1108 Maud St. was sentenced to three months in county jail. He was charged with breaking into the A and B Laundry on Nov. 1 and stealing $50 in change from coin machines.

Parole was revoked on Stanley Rodger Campbell of Bel-Air Trailer Court, who had been placed on a work-release program under which he worked during the day and spent the night in jail. Parole was revoked after he failed to return.

Robert C. Wallace, 228 N. Handy, was given a change of venue to Cape Girardeau County Magistrate Court on a charge of felonious assault. He was charged with forcing a Sikeston girl into his car at

Trash pickup discontinued

NEW MADRID — Monday night the board of alderman discontinued city trash pickup, approved payment of warrants, authorized power plant construction payments and approved an ordinance.

Effective Jan. 1, the city will no longer provide trash pickup from incinerators in the business district and at schools. This service is being discontinued due to increased cost to the city since the establishment of a county landfill. Businesses and schools involved will now have to obtain this service through private sources.

Warrants issued by the city to Bank of New Madrid for construction of light and power lines and sewer and water improvements totaling $30,000 were ordered paid from the Municipal Light and Power Co. funds.

An enabling ordinance was passed for an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a grant for the improvement and building of city parks and playgrounds. HUD has tentatively approved a plan for the expansion of the existing park on Mill Street and the establishment of an additional park on the old O'Bannon School site at Pinnell and Brush Prairie.

Construction payments approved at the city's 600-megawatt steam generating plant in St. Jude Industrial Park were $207,680.54 for construction materials and equipment and $29,730.21 payroll for Nov. 24 and $20,241.76 payroll for Dec. 1.

Bill aimed at 18-year-olds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The rights to sell, buy and possess liquor and beer would be extended to 18-yearolds under a bill submitted for the 1973 legislative session beginning Jan. 3.

Another bill prefilled Monday by three House members would change the Merit Ssystem Law to make pay scales uniform throughout the state.

The bill, authored by Reps. Hayden Morgan, D-Nevada, William A. Peterson, D-Marshall, and Joe D. Holt, D-Fulton, would remove a clause allowing localities in which the job is performed to play a part in setting the salary level.

Rep. Earl L. Schlef, D-Dellwood, offered two bills lowering the age from 21 to 18 in laws regulating sale, purchase and possession of liquor and "nonintoxicating" beer, which is defined by law as beer with an alcoholic content of 3.2 per cent by weight. That type is commonly sold in the state.

Rep. Bob F. Griffin, D-Cameron, offered a bill to make it a misdemeanor to damage or steal money from parking meters, coin telephones, vending machines, or money changing achines, or be illegally in possession of a key or other device used to open the machines.

Another Griffin bill would make it a theft to fail to return leased or rented property within 10 days of being notified to return it.

Rep. Cloy E. Whitney, RKirksville, submitted a bill to repeal a section of the Local Government Employes, Retirement System Law. The section says that no other plan can be used for employes other than policemen and firemen, and political subdivisions can't use plans other than the local government employes retirement system law other than social security, old age assistance, insurance or disability assistance.

A third bill to restore the death penalty in certain cases was submitted by Rep. Hardin C. Cox, D-Rock Port. Two others were sibmitted Friday.

Cox's bill would provide the death penalty for murder of a law enforcement officer, a guard or other employe of the Department of Corrections, a witness to a crime, any disabled person or a person over 70 and under 13.

Felony charges filed

CHARLESTON— Felony charges of assault with intent to kill and carrying a concealed weapon were filed Monday afternoon against Ivy Booker of Charleston.

Sheriff W.J. (Pedro) Simmons said the charges stem from a shooting incident Sunday night in the B.T.O. Club in the black section of town.

Miss Booker reportedly fired shots at Miss Carolyn Linda Butler as the latter left the club. Miss Butler turned herself over to authorities Sunday night after the incident in which two other women were wounded.

Miss Butler has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of Leora Long, who was wounded in both shoulders, and Gurtha Draper, who was shot through the neck.

Simmons said charges of assault with intent to kill and carrying a concealed weapon will be filed against Leora Long when she has recovered from her injuries.

Miss Booker and Miss Butler have been released on $1,000 bond each and will appear in Magistrate court Thursday.

3 arrested for kidnaping

LITTLE ROCK, Ark — Donald Joe Wilson, 21, of Blytheville; Billy Lacey, 18, of Yell County; and Daniel C. Turner, 21, of Paragould were arrested over the weekend on federal kidnaping charges, according to Ray L. Faisst, Federal Bureau of Investigation special agent.

U. S. Attorney E. H. Dillahunty authorized a complaint to be filed before U. S. Magistrate Robert E. Faulkner of Little Rock charging Wilson, Lacey and Turner with a violation of a federal kidnaping statute in which they forcibly abducted John J. Nichols, 53, a Blytheville cab driver, last Friday.

The complaint charges the three took Nichols at gunpoint to Dunklin County, Mo., where they robbed him of approximately $200 and shot him three times with a small- caliber pistol.

Nichols' cab was later found abandoned near Sycamore, Mo.

Nichols, a native of Blytheville, is in satisfactory condition in Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Extensive investigative efforts by law enforcement agencies in Northeast Arkansas, particularly the Blytheville and Paragould police departments, the Fulton County and Baxter County sheriff's offices, the Arkansas State Police and the FBI resulted in Wilson being taken into custody by Baxter County sheriff's officers at Mountain Home Sunday.

Lacy was apprehended by officers of Conway County, Yell County, Arkansas State Police and the FBI Sunday at Happy Valley in Yell County.

Officers of the Baxter County Sheriff's office and the Mountain Home police department arrested Turner Monday in Mountain Home.

Faisst praised the investigative efforts of the Blytheville police department which performed an outstanding investigative job in the initial phases of this investigation. Faisst said this is an excellent example of the cooperation of city, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies in northeast Arkansas.

Wilson, Lacy and Turner were brought to Little Rock where they were arraigned before Magistrate Robert E. Faulkner at 4:45 p.m. Monday. Bond was set at $50,000 each.

Bloomfield man killed

BLOOMFIELD-- A Bloomfield man was accidentally killed Monday near Dexter when he was caught in a rock crushing machine.

Stoddard County Coroner Ray Rainey said today that 29- year- old Jimmy Dale Robinson of Bloomfield Route Two was killed about 4 p.m. when his clothing caught on the drive shaft of a rock crushing machine and he was pulled into the machine. He was working at the Keene Gravel Co. plant on Highway 25 southwest of Dexter at the time of the accident.

Rainey said two men working with Robinson said they had seen him just a few minutes before he was found by his brother- in- law, Charles Frank, who was operating a bulldozer at the plant.

He was born June 20, 1943 in Poplar Bluff. On Dec. 22, 1963 at Acorn Ridge he married Elaine McCollom, who survives.

Other survivors include two daughters, Ronda Kay Robinson and Rebecca Elaine Robinson of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Robinson of Dexter; one brother, Norman Robinson Jr. of Jonesboro, Ark., and two sisters Carolyn Frank of Dexter and Dorothy Richards of Dudley.

Visitation will begin after noon Wednesday at Rainey Funeral Home in Dexter.

Services are scheduled Thursday at 2 p.m. in the funeral home.

Burial will be in Hills Cemetery near Bloomfield.

Head starters get extended vacation

PORTAGEVILLE — An extended Christmas vacation will begin Friday for 21 Head Start centers in the six-county area of Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot directed by Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, according to Mike Cooper, director.

A tentative date of Jan.2 has been set for Head Start center classes to resume, Cooper said, if federal funds for continuation of the program are forthcoming.

The program is funded annually from January through December, and 1972 funds have been used. Cooper said he expects the appropriation to be announced this month.

Approximately 1,300 pre-school children are enrolled in centers at Bell City, Bernie, Campbell, Caruthersville, Charleston, Dexter, East Prairie, Hayti, Kennett, North Lilbourn, Malden, Big Ridge, Benton, New Madrid, North Pemiscot, Portageville, Sikeston, Holcomb, Southland, Senath - Hornersville - Rives and Richland.

Apollo countdown smooth

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Preparations for Wednesday's last Apollo flight to the moon are "the smoothest we've had in some time," a space agency official said today as the pace accelerated on the launch pad for the 9:53 p.m. liftoff.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt slept late to adjust their biological time clocks, and expected to do some pleasure-flying in jet trainers and last-minute cramming for the flight of Apollo 17.

At 7 a.m. the downwardticking clocked reached the 28hour mark — the official start of the terminal phase when the spacecraft and its systems receive final checks and fuel.

At 1 a.m. Wednesday, the 402foot-high service structure will be rolled away and the Saturn 5 will stand alone, poised for the half-million mile, 13-day journey.

All systems — human, hardware, weather and rodent — were ready for America's first night launching of humans into space — and the last moon landing in the foreseeable future.

The launch crew ran into the usual number of minor and easily fixable problems — hose connections that sprung leaks, an air filter that didn't fit, a piece of scientific equipment that wasn't working right.

None of it was important enough to disrupt the minuteby-minute schedule as electronic clocks tick downward for the liftoff.

"The weather outlook continues to be favorable," the s8ace agency said. "The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with winds from 8-12 m.p.h. out of the south. The temperature in the vicinity of the launch pad should be in the 60s."

That should be good news for the 500,000 space buffs expected in the Cape Kennedy area in central Florida and millions of others in a 500-mile radius who will see the Saturn 5's 2,200foot-long tail of fire if skies are clear.

And the rodents — five tiny mice who'll give their lives for science — come aboard today in individual tubes inside a sealed aluminum canister. They'll ride in the command ship America with Evans round-and-round the moon while Cernan and Schmitt explore the combination highlandlowland area of Taurus-Littrow on the surface.

Experimenters implanted wafer-like cosmic ray detectors under the skulls of the mice. Back on earth, the tiny natives of the California desert will be killed and their pea-sized brains examined to determine how cosmic radiation has affected brain tissue.

That experiment looks to the future when humans hope to make extended space flights, but another lunar landing by Americans is not in plans for the rest of the century except perhaps as a joint RussianAmerican venture.

The astronauts went to the top of the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket Monday to refresh themselves on emergency procedures should there be need for a hurry-up abort. In the afternoon Cernan and Schmitt went into a stationary trainer that uses movie screens to simulate the landing on the moon. Evans rehearsed in a similar machine for re-entry into eart 's atmosphere and splashdown in the Pacific on Dec. 19.

MOTHER GOOSE FOR STREET GANGS

Somehow the best-laid plans of mice, men and the Federal bureaucracy often go astray. It is no simple matter to say which of the three has the best-laid plans furthest astray, but the Federal Government is surely not last.

Perhaps you read the news story reporting that the Federal Model Cities Program, financed by your tax dollars, is buying and distributing children's literature that encourages and incites violence. The book in question, called "The Inner City Mother Goose," is in the form of nursery rhymes which glorify attacks on the police, honest citizens and judges. The so-called "modern" Mother Goose, authored by someone named Eve Merriam, purports to be a satire designed for adults. It was published in 1969 by Simon & Shuster.

Over 60,000 copies have been sold, largely to public school libraries who buy them with Federal funds. The City of Buffalo was so alarmed at the book that it took the matter to court. Judge William G. Heffron, with good reason, has asked a grand jury to investigate.

Leafing through the Merriam- Simon & Shuster Mother Goose, one finds an unusual version of "Jack Be Nimble;::

Jack be Nimble, Jack be quick;
Snap the blade, and give it a flick;

Grab the purse, it's easily done
Then just for kicks, just for fun,
Plunge the knife and cut and run.

Satire? Or encouragement to steal and murder? Should this be taught to children, particularly in the "inner city" where moral training and church attendance is often sadly lacking? Responsible people in Buffalo and other cities receiving the books strongly think not.

Giving impressionable youth such literature is supported however, by the School Library Journal, the American Library Association and the New York Public Library. The publisher and author allege that the book is an "adult" satire. Yet the fact remains that those in control are steering the controversial book to school children, in school libraries, at taxpayers' expense.

Finding decent, inspiring fiction for children is difficult enough without anomymous Federal bureaucrats flooding our libraries with a homicidal Mother Goose.

DEPENDS ON WHAT WE DO WITH WHAT WE HAVE

A wise man has said that it is not so much a matter of what we have as what we do with what we have that makes the difference in this world. This philosophy is illustrated with the following facts:

Longfellow could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem on it and make it worth $6,000. That's genius.

Rockefeller could sign his name to a piece of paper and make it worth a million. That's capital.

Uncle Sam can take some silver and other alloys, stamp an emblem on it, and make it worth a dollar. That's money.

A mechanic can take metal that is worth only five dollars and make it worth fifty dollars. That's skill.

An artist can take a 50 cent pice of canvas, paint a picture on it and make it worth $1,000. That's art.

FEDERAL ENCROACHMENT

The long arm of Uncle Sam has been reaching into local domains of government with increasing frequency since the days of the New Deal when the expediency of fighting a depression was used to soothe ruffled feathers of city and county officials. Federal funding has led to federal control of all too many functions that fell within the province of the state and its sub-autonomies.

One of the most controversial intrusions by Washington into local affairs has involved the school systems of the country. A series of Supreme Court decisions paved the way and then the bureaucrates stepped in to implement the rulings and control the purse strings and personnel. But the schools, with all their problems, are just one facet in this business of widening federal control. Local police departments are having to resist Washington also (Editors Note: Dallas police successfully sought two recent grants from the Ford Foundation, despite warnings from more informed Dallasites.)

Communities that have been bled white by federal taxation are tempted to grab at grants offered to police departments and this can lead to serious trouble in the future. While the funds and grants are offered to implement computerization programs and other aids to police work there is no mention made of strings attached. But it stands to reason that these strings will be manipulated sooner or later. Many local officers who have dedicated their lives to law enforcement fear that eventually a federal police force will be set up and that it could encompass lateral transfers of personnel. This means the shifting of officers from city to city.

State, county and city governments ought to take a long look before accepting any federal handout money. It could lead to something worse than federal dictation to local school boards.

Why is it that people who shout the loudest about a subject so often know the least about it. A case in point are the disciples of so-called "organic" food.

The fact is that the increasing length of life of Americans completely contradicts the idea that our food supply is toxic or worn out. A noted nutritionist, Dr. W. H. Sebrell, Jr., of Columbia University says, "Diet is one of the most important factors in determining how long an individual lives ...While a good diet cannot guarantee good health, you can't be healthy unless you live on a good diet."

Back in 1850 a white male child had a life expectancy of 38.3 years (females, live 40.5). By 1968, the expectancy had risen to 67.5 years for men and 74.9 years for women.

Additionally, almost all world athletic records have been broken in the last few years, and Americans are generally becoming taller and heavier. For example, a 7-foot basketball player is no longer a surprise. The causes of this improvement are many - sanitation and epidemic control; medical attention; less hard physical labor; and adequate food, with nutrition the important factor. Even if all other conditions are favorable, nutrient deficiencies could cause deaths, and it's not eating food that counts but the higher nutrient quality of it.

As for organic foods, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association reports that "most food alleged to be grown completely without chemicals is mislabeled ... there is no such thing as an "organically grown" plant. Plants utilize water soluble inorganic ions, not organic compounds. They cannot use natural fertilizer until soil organisms break it down to inorganic elements. Foods passed off as "Naturlly grown" are often inferior in spite of a higher price tag.

A LESSON FROM JAPAN

Japan normally has but a 20-day supply of the raw materials needed by her industries. The nation is almost totally dependent upon a heavy flow of imports of such things as metals, lumber and petroleum. Unlike the U.S., which seems to take an abundant supply of petroleum for granted and has made a political football of the energy policy question, Japanese leaders are keenly aware of the vulnerability of a nation that lacks access to petroleum -- civilization's most basic energy source. Japanese crews are exploring for oil in Japan's own coastal waters and from the Persian Gulf to the Gulf of Siam, as well as in Alaska and Colombia.

And how does the Japanese government respond to the search of its citizens for oil? Does it sit back and merely wring the last dime of taxes it can get from enterprising oilmen? Far from it. As Time magazine puts it, "The urgency of tapping overseas resources has propelled the Tokyo government into a direct role that goes far beyond the customary low- interest development loans ... Tokyo is setting up a $1 billion fund ... with an unusual feature that absolves unsuccessful prospectors of any risk. If a project such as drilling for oil turns out to be a flop, the government will simply write off the loan as a loss." If it succeeds, the loan is, of course, repaid -- at a high interest rate.

The U.S. oil indutrry does not want this kind of help from government. Industry spokesmen have made clear that all they wish are public policies and tax laws which recognize the necessity of a strong, productive oil industry to the future of the United States. Declining exploratory efforts and soaring costs of oil imports should have removed the last suspicion that oilmen speak from self- interest alone. they know, as do the Japanese, that a secure petroleum supply is literally the life of a nation.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

The current slowdown in business may be a blessing in disguise. It might help teach respect for law -- a first fundamental of self-government. It could also lead to a new realization that social goals are unattainable except through the strength of the business system.

The latest crop of college graduates, for example, are learning the hard way, in their search for employment, that profits, jobs, and prosperity sink or swim together. Perhaps this will lead to an awareness of other truths about the American business system. For example, in the first three quarters of 1970, 90.2 per cent of the earnings of the average employees. Of the remaining 9.8 per cent retained by the owners (stockholders) nearly half was needed to finance improvements for future growth.

From this, it should not be hard to see why it is idle to talk of social reform or progress of any kind unless it is accompanied by business growth and profits.

NEW AD RULES WILL RESULT IN HIGHER PRICES — BROZEN

A leading economist says consumers will pay more for everyday products like bread, if new Federal Trade Commission rulings on advertising go unchallenged.

Yale Brozen, Business Economics Professor at University of Chicago, said in a speech in San Francisco recently, that the new FTC regulations undermine the economic basis of advertising and eliminate cost savings which consumers enjoy under our present mass marketing system.

Brozen referred to a recent FTC ruling which would prohibit marketers of such standard products as bread, bleach and aspirin from advertising specific virtues of brands unless they point out that competitive brands offer similar benefits.

The Chicago economist said the result will be less advertising and less information to consumers upon which to base purchasing judgments.

"All of this," he added, "in my opinion, will mean an increase in costs to consumers. The simple economic basis for advertising is that it allows the advertiser, providing he offers quality and value, to sell more, thus spreading fixed production costs over more sales and reducing the price per unit to the consumer."

REDS LOOK FOR SCAPEGOATS

The communist system bumbles along fooling its people about the glories accruing to the working class in the "people's paradise." Then every 8 or 10 years everything breaks down to the point of calamity and scapegoats have to be found. Meanwhile, the Red bosses turn to the capitalist world for food to prevent starvation and revolution among their terrorized, enslaved citizens.

Soviet Russia is begging and buying wheat like mad to cover up its latest failures. The Soviet citizens, however, are being told that the communist government's state farms and collective farms achieved bumper crops. The only reason capitalist wheat is being bought is because the generous Red governments are giving their own wheat away to starving, backward peoples in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Few in Russia believe such lies.

The scapegoats which the communist masters are discovering as the cause for Soviet economic failures turn out to be, of all things, religion and alcoholism. Both these items were supposed to be ended under the "dictatorship of the proletariat." Religion has been hounded virtually to death for 50 years, but somehow refuses to die. Alcoholism is supposed to be impossible in the "worker's paradise."

People in non- communist lands should look long and hard at the Soviet Union's squirming and refusal to face facts. Look for more terror as the Reds' answer to their failure to wipe out religion is Russia and their inevitable failures in feeding their people. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — You can't fall down as long as you are going up.

So it's the better part of wisdom now and then to pause and take stock of yourself and your career. One of the best ways to do this is to check your prestige, that mystical and somewhat mythical gauge by which Americans judge each other.

Of course, you could hire a team of efficiency and psychological experts to go over you and make an estimate. But that would take weeks of time and thousands of dollars. But you can make your own judgement of your prestige by taking a small inventory of your recent achievements and failures.

How? Well, here are a few suggestions.

You are undoubtely winning friends, doing well on your job and creating a good community impression if —

Real estate values go up when you move into a new neighborhood.

Your old frinds loyally say you're the only man they know whose success hasn't gone to his head — but they secretly hate your guts anyway. Because true-blue frinds can forgive each other anything except success.

Your wife keeps a candle burning night and day at each side of the framed photograph of you she has hung in her bedroom.

Your mistress does the same thing in her love nest, except that in her photograph you are wearing a dashing bowtie, and she has written across it "I love you, hero" in red lipstick.

Your page-long biography in "Who's Who in America" is printed in capital letters

If you aren't yet the boss of your firm, you already have designed the kind of personalized office stationery you want when you do take over the helm.

When you walk up to the water cooler, the gang around it start to smile appreciatively because they know you're going to tell them the best new joke of the day.

Your teen-age children always listen to you with respect — and sometimes do what you tell them.

That's the bright side of the status picture. How about the dismal side?

Well, you can be pretty sure your prestige has slipped to the zero point if —

You are still so disliked in the penitentiary you served time in that the inmates won't let you belong to its alumni association.

Your wife keeps a photo of her high school sweetheart on her bedside night table.

The pretty waitress at the beanery where you have lunch always tries to get the homely waitress to serve you.

When the usher who takes up the offering during church services passes you, he plucks a dollar bill from the plate himself and quietly puts it into the outside breast pocket of your coat.

Your boss usually mistakes you for one of two other guys.

Man, you just don't need help — you need rescue.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- At about 8:15 last Tuesday night, the White House was on the telephone. The caller wanted construction labor chief Pete Brennan. Someone passed him a note as he sat on the dais of the Jewish Labor Committee's annual Human Rights banquet. He left and returned a few minutes later saying, "That was nothing, just something about a change in janitors."

That did it. Word flared along the labor leader- laden dais. Incumbent Labor Secretary James Hodgson had been called a "janitor" by labor chief George Meany. There would be a new janitor soon, Brennan was saying with his brand of Irish wit.

Unfortunately, the appointment of a new powerful Secretary of Labor-- a labor man-- smothered one of the most critical stories which this lone columnist actually had come to cover.

That evening, before an approving audience of militant and veteran unionists, not one of whom has ever been tainted by racial bigotry, the AFL—CIO's national leaders declared open war on quotas-- on both the job and political fronts.

The words came with punctuated mortar- like impact from the AFL— CIO's second- in- command, 50- year- old secretary- treasurer Lane Kirkland. He spoke for Meany, too, who once called Kirkland the movement's "house intellectual." The youthful Kirkland, once one of the youngest ship officers, is a member of organizations which range from the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science (where he is a Fellow) to the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union.

"Quota democracy," said he, "is not progressive. It is retrogressive. And it is a license to perpetuate bigotry. . . Who has a right to say that a woman can only be represented by certain women, a youth by a certain youth, a black by certain blacks?"

Kirkland hit hard at the quota system, whether in industry or in a political party, as an exclusionary device even when proposed "with the best of intentions."

When he lashed out at "quota- bound liberals," Brennan applauded along with the rest of the large audience. Thus Richard Nixon, his new Labor Secretary, and the labor movement are in line on this issue, which will sear the nation's news during the coming four years.

The President is determined there shall be no minority quotas or proportional representation on the job. He is bound to be pounded by women's lib, black communities, Chicanos and other Spanish- language community organizations, Indians, et al.

But the line, though razor-edged, is firm. It was laid down in a virtually unnoticed memorandum dispatched to all federal agencies by Hodgson last September. It now is government policy-- affecting tens of billions of dollars worth of purchases and construction.

It is official policy, regardless of the philosophy of William Brown, chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which recently cited Houston's Hughes Tool Co. and four unions for racial and sexual discrimination.

The Labor Dept. said on Sept. 18 its "Equal Opportunity programs for federal contractors, when applied as written and intended, do not conflict with President Nixon's caution against the use of quotas or proportional representation."

Then Hodgson, speaking directly on orders from the White House, added: "We have reviewed our policy and practices . . . and have concluded that the regulations and orders that have been issued by the department to agencies are not to conflict with the President's directive. The policy, regulations and orders of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance do not provide for quotas or proportional representation. . .

"The goals required of government contractors are designed as targets or levels of achievement by which the contractors' good- faith efforts to insure equal employment opportunities. . . are measured. These goals were not designed to be, nor may they properly or lawfully be interpreted as requiring, employment quotas with respect to persons of any race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

"Therefore, failure to achieve a contractor's goal is not to be regarded, per se, as a violation. . .The crucial determinate has been and remains whether the contractor has made good- faith efforts."

It is this emotional issue above all, this distaste for quotas, which swung a huge and forceful section of American labor to Richard Nixon. The words spoken by Kirkland would undoubtedly have been articulated by Meany, who was scheduled to speak but was home recovering from a short stomach ache hospital stay. He recovered fast enough. He was in a public restaurant the other day.

This is the issue which alienated labor from George McGovern politically, socially and industrially.

This concept of quotas and goals, it seems to me, lies just below the surface boards of the interplay on the national political scene. It is the stuff of the headlines of tomorrow.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Drug addiction among GIs in Europe has increased so alarmingly that the Arm's European command fears "a raging heroin epidemic" by February.

The cause? President Nixon's crackdown on dope smuggling, it's believed, has compelled the smuggling rings to push their poisons in Europe. The easiest marks are bored and lonely GIs, who are looking for escape.

They get started on minor drugs like marijuana, then the pushers secretly add opiates to give an extra kick. Before the victim realizes it, he is hooked on heroin.

The grim facts are spelled out in several internal Army documents which we have obtained from Europe. Declares a typical report from the 8th Infantry Division:

"Through the last nine months, the inroads of drug abuse in the division have been phenomenal. In February, we saw mostly hash smoking in barracks areas. Gradually, there was an upsurge of hard drug use leading into the beginning of summer....

"By mid- summer, drug use started to take on epidemic proportions at Rhine Kaserne in Wiesbaden, Lee Barracks in Mainz, and Anderson Barracks in Dexheim, in that order. Similar drug growth appeared at Coleman Barracks in Mannheim with significant heroin involvement surfacing.

--Needles Cause Outbreak--

"Concurrently, in both regional areas, there was a rather dramatic increase in the use of needles, particularly in the Coleman Barracks area where severe outbreaks of hepatitis (caused by using unsterilized needles) took place in late September and early October. In one case, an entire battalion at Coleman had to be inoculated against the development of infectious hepatitis with Gamma Globulin.

"The character of drug abuse contined to progress through the end of summer and beginning of fall with heroin appearing in all areas. Presently, there is strong evidence to support the theory that the progression of drug abuse through late spring and the summer was more deliberate than it appeared to be and took on the character of market cultivation.

"Some curious things happened. Street drugs turned in for laboratory testing tested out to have some strange properties. Some of the speed tested showed signs of cocaine and STP. Some hashish tested showed signs of strychnine, speed, and at times, opiates...

"At about the end of September, we started hearing about small but consistently received quantities of heroin coming into the Mainz, Baumholder, Bad Kreuznach and Mannheim areas. This heroin was not, and as far as we know, has not yet been dealt in quantity, but has been stashed to be dealt and pushed later....

"Based on all of this, it appears that a rather elaborate effort at using middlemen and small time GI operators only, is in progress. A market for drugs seems to be under cultivation, which continually draws more people into the drug sub-culture. Certain drugs are being caused to be available at rather specific times. When successful, this situation creates the 'garbage head abuser' who will use any drug around or available.

--Cheap Heroin--

"If this situation is permitted to develop further, we feel that between now and February a time will come when the market for drugs will be fully developed, but drug availability will dry up nearly completely. The dopers will not even be able to buy an aspirin from the illegal market.

"Some short time thereafter, cheaply priced heroin will be available, very possibly disguised as other drugs. If this happens, we will have come full circle with a raging heroin epidemic on our hands by February."

When we first warned in 1968 that drug use in Saigon was reaching epidemic proportions, the Pentagon denied it. The facts we had reported turned out to be all too true. For many veterans of Vietnam, the buddy poppy had a whole new meaning.

Now the military authorities are more candid. We spoke at length with Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, who is handling the drug problem for the Pentagon. He acknowledged that drug usage among the military has suddenly shot up from one per cent to five per cent in Europe, at the same time that addiction is declining in Southeast Asia and the United States. Indeed, an estimated 40 per cent of young GIs have tried drugs at least once.

We are convinced from our investigation that the armed forces are doing all in their power to bring the drug problem under control. Some of the methods, however, are unique.

Instructed one 8th Division document: "Get the hash heads to protect their hash by having them get rid of the hard drugs. When hard drugs are out, get the hashish out."

In the meantime, more of our boys in Europe are learning to stick needles in their arms.

Additionally, almost all world athletic records have been broken in the last few years, and Americans are generally becoming taller and heavier. For example, a 7-foot basketball player is no longer a surprise. The causes of this improvement are many - sanitation and epidemic control; medical attention; less hard physical labor; and adequate food, with nutrition the important factor. Even if all other conditions are favorable, nutrient deficiencies could cause deaths, and it's not eating food that counts but the higher nutrient quality of it.

As for organic foods, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association reports that "most food alleged to be grown completely without chemicals is mislabeled ... there is no such thing as an "organically grown" plant. Plants utilize water soluble inorganic ions, not organic compounds. They cannot use natural fertilizer until soil organisms break it down to inorganic elements. Foods passed off as "Naturlly grown" are often inferior in spite of a higher price tag.

A LESSON FROM JAPAN

Japan normally has but a 20-day supply of the raw materials needed by her industries. The nation is almost totally dependent upon a heavy flow of imports of such things as metals, lumber and petroleum. Unlike the U.S., which seems to take an abundant supply of petroleum for granted and has made a political football of the energy policy question, Japanese leaders are keenly aware of the vulnerability of a nation that lacks access to petroleum -- civilization's most basic energy source. Japanese crews are exploring for oil in Japan's own coastal waters and from the Persian Gulf to the Gulf of Siam, as well as in Alaska and Colombia.

And how does the Japanese government respond to the search of its citizens for oil? Does it sit back and merely wring the last dime of taxes it can get from enterprising oilmen? Far from it. As Time magazine puts it, "The urgency of tapping overseas resources has propelled the Tokyo government into a direct role that goes far beyond the customary low- interest development loans ... Tokyo is setting up a $1 billion fund ... with an unusual feature that absolves unsuccessful prospectors of any risk. If a project such as drilling for oil turns out to be a flop, the government will simply write off the loan as a loss." If it succeeds, the loan is, of course, repaid -- at a high interest rate.

The U.S. oil indutrry does not want this kind of help from government. Industry spokesmen have made clear that all they wish are public policies and tax laws which recognize the necessity of a strong, productive oil industry to the future of the United States. Declining exploratory efforts and soaring costs of oil imports should have removed the last suspicion that oilmen speak from self- interest alone. they know, as do the Japanese, that a secure petroleum supply is literally the life of a nation.

HOLD ALL CALLS, PLEASE

A good man who had been henpecked all his married life died and went to heaven. St. Peter felt so sorry for him that he gave him a cloud of his own where nobody would disturb him. He had just sat down and was enjoying the peace and quiet when he heard his name being paged.

"Here I am. What do you want?" he called out.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

The current slowdown in business may be a blessing in disguise. It might help teach respect for law -- a first fundamental of self-government. It could also lead to a new realization that social goals are unattainable except through the strength of the business system.

The latest crop of college graduates, for example, are learning the hard way, in their search for employment, that profits, jobs, and prosperity sink or swim together. Perhaps this will lead to an awareness of other truths about the American business system. For example, in the first three quarters of 1970, 90.2 per cent of the earnings of the average employees. Of the remaining 9.8 per cent retained by the owners (stockholders) nearly half was needed to finance improvements for future growth.

From this, it should not be hard to see why it is idle to talk of social reform or progress of any kind unless it is accompanied by business growth and profits.

NEW AD RULES WILL RESULT IN HIGHER PRICES — BROZEN

A leading economist says consumers will pay more for everyday products like bread, if new Federal Trade Commission rulings on advertising go unchallenged.

Yale Brozen, Business Economics Professor at University of Chicago, said in a speech in San Francisco recently, that the new FTC regulations undermine the economic basis of advertising and eliminate cost savings which consumers enjoy under our present mass marketing system.

Brozen referred to a recent FTC ruling which would prohibit marketers of such standard products as bread, bleach and aspirin from advertising specific virtues of brands unless they point out that competitive brands offer similar benefits.

The Chicago economist said the result will be less advertising and less information to consumers upon which to base purchasing judgments.

"All of this," he added, "in my opinion, will mean an increase in costs to consumers. The simple economic basis for advertising is that it allows the advertiser, providing he offers quality and value, to sell more, thus spreading fixed production costs over more sales and reducing the price per unit to the consumer."

REDS LOOK FOR SCAPEGOATS

The communist system bumbles along fooling its people about the glories accruing to the working class in the "people's paradise." Then every 8 or 10 years everything breaks down to the point of calamity and scapegoats have to be found. Meanwhile, the Red bosses turn to the capitalist world for food to prevent starvation and revolution among their terrorized, enslaved citizens.

Soviet Russia is begging and buying wheat like mad to cover up its latest failures. The Soviet citizens, however, are being told that the communist government's state farms and collective farms achieved bumper crops. The only reason capitalist wheat is being bought is because the generous Red governments are giving their own wheat away to starving, backward peoples in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Few in Russia believe such lies.

The scapegoats which the communist masters are discovering as the cause for Soviet economic failures turn out to be, of all things, religion and alcoholism. Both these items were supposed to be ended under the "dictatorship of the proletariat." Religion has been hounded virtually to death for 50 years, but somehow refuses to die. Alcoholism is supposed to be impossible in the "worker's paradise."

People in non- communist lands should look long and hard at the Soviet Union's squirming and refusal to face facts. Look for more terror as the Reds' answer to their failure to wipe out religion is Russia and their inevitable failures in feeding their people. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — You can't fall down as long as you are going up.

So it's the better part of wisdom now and then to pause and take stock of yourself and your career. One of the best ways to do this is to check your prestige, that mystical and somewhat mythical gauge by which Americans judge each other.

Of course, you could hire a team of efficiency and psychological experts to go over you and make an estimate. But that would take weeks of time and thousands of dollars. But you can make your own judgement of your prestige by taking a small inventory of your recent achievements and failures.

How? Well, here are a few suggestions.

You are undoubtely winning friends, doing well on your job and creating a good community impression if —

Real estate values go up when you move into a new neighborhood.

Your old frinds loyally say you're the only man they know whose success hasn't gone to his head — but they secretly hate your guts anyway. Because true-blue frinds can forgive each other anything except success.

Your wife keeps a candle burning night and day at each side of the framed photograph of you she has hung in her bedroom.

Your mistress does the same thing in her love nest, except that in her photograph you are wearing a dashing bowtie, and she has written across it "I love you, hero" in red lipstick.

Your page-long biography in "Who's Who in America" is printed in capital letters

If you aren't yet the boss of your firm, you already have designed the kind of personalized office stationery you want when you do take over the helm.

When you walk up to the water cooler, the gang around it start to smile appreciatively because they know you're going to tell them the best new joke of the day.

Your teen-age children always listen to you with respect — and sometimes do what you tell them.

That's the bright side of the status picture. How about the dismal side?

Well, you can be pretty sure your prestige has slipped to the zero point if —

You are still so disliked in the penitentiary you served time in that the inmates won't let you belong to its alumni association.

Your wife keeps a photo of her high school sweetheart on her bedside night table.

The pretty waitress at the beanery where you have lunch always tries to get the homely waitress to serve you.

When the usher who takes up the offering during church services passes you, he plucks a dollar bill from the plate himself and quietly puts it into the outside breast pocket of your coat.

Your boss usually mistakes you for one of two other guys.

Man, you just don't need help — you need rescue.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- At about 8:15 last Tuesday night, the White House was on the telephone. The caller wanted construction labor chief Pete Brennan. Someone passed him a note as he sat on the dais of the Jewish Labor Committee's annual Human Rights banquet. He left and returned a few minutes later saying, "That was nothing, just something about a change in janitors."

That did it. Word flared along the labor leader- laden dais. Incumbent Labor Secretary James Hodgson had been called a "janitor" by labor chief George Meany. There would be a new janitor soon, Brennan was saying with his brand of Irish wit.

Unfortunately, the appointment of a new powerful Secretary of Labor-- a labor man-- smothered one of the most critical stories which this lone columnist actually had come to cover.

That evening, before an approving audience of militant and veteran unionists, not one of whom has ever been tainted by racial bigotry, the AFL—CIO's national leaders declared open war on quotas-- on both the job and political fronts.

The words came with punctuated mortar- like impact from the AFL— CIO's second- in- command, 50- year- old secretary- treasurer Lane Kirkland. He spoke for Meany, too, who once called Kirkland the movement's "house intellectual." The youthful Kirkland, once one of the youngest ship officers, is a member of organizations which range from the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science (where he is a Fellow) to the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union.

"Quota democracy," said he, "is not progressive. It is retrogressive. And it is a license to perpetuate bigotry. . . Who has a right to say that a woman can only be represented by certain women, a youth by a certain youth, a black by certain blacks?"

Kirkland hit hard at the quota system, whether in industry or in a political party, as an exclusionary device even when proposed "with the best of intentions."

When he lashed out at "quota- bound liberals," Brennan applauded along with the rest of the large audience. Thus Richard Nixon, his new Labor Secretary, and the labor movement are in line on this issue, which will sear the nation's news during the coming four years.

The President is determined there shall be no minority quotas or proportional representation on the job. He is bound to be pounded by women's lib, black communities, Chicanos and other Spanish- language community organizations, Indians, et al.

But the line, though razor-edged, is firm. It was laid down in a virtually unnoticed memorandum dispatched to all federal agencies by Hodgson last September. It now is government policy-- affecting tens of billions of dollars worth of purchases and construction.

It is official policy, regardless of the philosophy of William Brown, chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which recently cited Houston's Hughes Tool Co. and four unions for racial and sexual discrimination.

The Labor Dept. said on Sept. 18 its "Equal Opportunity programs for federal contractors, when applied as written and intended, do not conflict with President Nixon's caution against the use of quotas or proportional representation."

Then Hodgson, speaking directly on orders from the White House, added: "We have reviewed our policy and practices . . . and have concluded that the regulations and orders that have been issued by the department to agencies are not to conflict with the President's directive. The policy, regulations and orders of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance do not provide for quotas or proportional representation. . .

"The goals required of government contractors are designed as targets or levels of achievement by which the contractors' good- faith efforts to insure equal employment opportunities. . . are measured. These goals were not designed to be, nor may they properly or lawfully be interpreted as requiring, employment quotas with respect to persons of any race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

"Therefore, failure to achieve a contractor's goal is not to be regarded, per se, as a violation. . .The crucial determinate has been and remains whether the contractor has made good- faith efforts."

It is this emotional issue above all, this distaste for quotas, which swung a huge and forceful section of American labor to Richard Nixon. The words spoken by Kirkland would undoubtedly have been articulated by Meany, who was scheduled to speak but was home recovering from a short stomach ache hospital stay. He recovered fast enough. He was in a public restaurant the other day.

This is the issue which alienated labor from George McGovern politically, socially and industrially.

This concept of quotas and goals, it seems to me, lies just below the surface boards of the interplay on the national political scene. It is the stuff of the headlines of tomorrow.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Drug addiction among GIs in Europe has increased so alarmingly that the Arm's European command fears "a raging heroin epidemic" by February.

The cause? President Nixon's crackdown on dope smuggling, it's believed, has compelled the smuggling rings to push their poisons in Europe. The easiest marks are bored and lonely GIs, who are looking for escape.

They get started on minor drugs like marijuana, then the pushers secretly add opiates to give an extra kick. Before the victim realizes it, he is hooked on heroin.

The grim facts are spelled out in several internal Army documents which we have obtained from Europe. Declares a typical report from the 8th Infantry Division:

"Through the last nine months, the inroads of drug abuse in the division have been phenomenal. In February, we saw mostly hash smoking in barracks areas. Gradually, there was an upsurge of hard drug use leading into the beginning of summer....

"By mid- summer, drug use started to take on epidemic proportions at Rhine Kaserne in Wiesbaden, Lee Barracks in Mainz, and Anderson Barracks in Dexheim, in that order. Similar drug growth appeared at Coleman Barracks in Mannheim with significant heroin involvement surfacing.

--Needles Cause Outbreak--

"Concurrently, in both regional areas, there was a rather dramatic increase in the use of needles, particularly in the Coleman Barracks area where severe outbreaks of hepatitis (caused by using unsterilized needles) took place in late September and early October. In one case, an entire battalion at Coleman had to be inoculated against the development of infectious hepatitis with Gamma Globulin.

"The character of drug abuse contined to progress through the end of summer and beginning of fall with heroin appearing in all areas. Presently, there is strong evidence to support the theory that the progression of drug abuse through late spring and the summer was more deliberate than it appeared to be and took on the character of market cultivation.

"Some curious things happened. Street drugs turned in for laboratory testing tested out to have some strange properties. Some of the speed tested showed signs of cocaine and STP. Some hashish tested showed signs of strychnine, speed, and at times, opiates...

"At about the end of September, we started hearing about small but consistently received quantities of heroin coming into the Mainz, Baumholder, Bad Kreuznach and Mannheim areas. This heroin was not, and as far as we know, has not yet been dealt in quantity, but has been stashed to be dealt and pushed later....

"Based on all of this, it appears that a rather elaborate effort at using middlemen and small time GI operators only, is in progress. A market for drugs seems to be under cultivation, which continually draws more people into the drug sub-culture. Certain drugs are being caused to be available at rather specific times. When successful, this situation creates the 'garbage head abuser' who will use any drug around or available.

--Cheap Heroin--

"If this situation is permitted to develop further, we feel that between now and February a time will come when the market for drugs will be fully developed, but drug availability will dry up nearly completely. The dopers will not even be able to buy an aspirin from the illegal market.

"Some short time thereafter, cheaply priced heroin will be available, very possibly disguised as other drugs. If this happens, we will have come full circle with a raging heroin epidemic on our hands by February."

When we first warned in 1968 that drug use in Saigon was reaching epidemic proportions, the Pentagon denied it. The facts we had reported turned out to be all too true. For many veterans of Vietnam, the buddy poppy had a whole new meaning.

Now the military authorities are more candid. We spoke at length with Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, who is handling the drug problem for the Pentagon. He acknowledged that drug usage among the military has suddenly shot up from one per cent to five per cent in Europe, at the same time that addiction is declining in Southeast Asia and the United States. Indeed, an estimated 40 per cent of young GIs have tried drugs at least once.

We are convinced from our investigation that the armed forces are doing all in their power to bring the drug problem under control. Some of the methods, however, are unique.

Instructed one 8th Division document: "Get the hash heads to protect their hash by having them get rid of the hard drugs. When hard drugs are out, get the hashish out."

In the meantime, more of our boys in Europe are learning to stick needles in their arms.

Revenue-sharing checks mailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal revenue-sharing checks go into the mail this week and the Treasury Department advises cities and states not to be surprised if they get less than expected.

Charls E. Walker, deputy Treasury secretary, said Monday that the complex formula under which state and local government allotments are figured will not be updated until early next year.

The local governments, Walker said, should be patient until the department publishes the full information on which the checks were based.

Some 39,000 governmental jurisdictions should receive federal payments under the revenuesharing plan, approved by Congress and President Nixon this year.

Peace session off

PARIS (AP)— The negotiating session today between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho was canceled this morning, but U.S. and North Vietnamese spokesmen said they would meet again Wednesday.

No explanation was given for cancellation to today's meeting. There was speculation that the announcement was a ruse to mislead newsmen, and that President Nixon's national security adviser and the Hanoi Politburo member were planning a secret rendezvous.

Eleven days ago during the last round of Kissinger— Tho negotiations, the North Vietnamese announced that the two men would not meet that day. But they slipped off to a suburban site and conferred for an hour.

Kissinger and Tho resumed negotiations Monday after a nine- day recess. they met for a total of five hours amid a complete news blackout. But officials in Washington said the talks are moving to a climax.

Tho and Xuan Thuy, the head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks met this morning with Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the chief of the Viet Cong delegation to the talks, and other members of her delegation.

Kissinger conferred for an hour Monday night with Pham Dang Lam, the head of the South Vietnamese delegation to the talks.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government kept up its campaign for the cease-fire agreement to include provision for withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam and safeguards to insure that the proposed National Council for Reconciliation and Concord won't turn into a coalition government.

These Saigon demands were outlined once again by South Vietnam's chief delegate to the weekly Paris peace talks, Pham Dang Lam, in a meeting with French journalists.

Despite South Vietnam's continuing insistence on these points, the belief was widespread that the United States is going to agree to the cease- fire this time, regardless of how little the North Vietnamese are ready to concede.

"Holiday Greeting," sponsored by the Dexter Junior Civic Club won first prize in the Christmas parade float judging Saturday in Dexter.

Junior Civic Club wins first prize

DEXTER — The Junior Civic Club of Dexter won first prize and a check for $50 in Saturday's annual Christmas parade float judging.

The float theme was "Holiday Greeting" and featured mushrooms, elves and Christmas packages.

The parade began at the Big Star Supermarket parking lot and proceeded down Stoddard Street to the city administrative building. Santa Claus and the city's new fire truck were the main attractions in the parade.

Second place was claimed by the Youth Community Betterment Club of Dexter with a float which featured a prisoner in a cage with the theme, "Prisoners of War Have No Christmas". A $25 runner-up check was presented.

Liberty Hill General Baptist Church of Aid was awarded third place and $15 for a float with the theme, "Sailing with Christ".

Bryan named to park board

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — C. Lee Bryan, Poplar Bluff Republican, was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today to the state Park Board for a four-year term.

He succeeds Robert M. Wolpers, Poplar Bluff, publisher of the Daily American-Republic, who is senior member of the board after 12 years of service. He has been board chairman several times.

4 injured

Three persons were slightly injured and one person was seriously injured in four area traffic accidents Monday according to the highway patrol.

Joe Tetley, 77, of Farmington was critically injured at 10:10 a.m. when his pickup ran off the road and struck the end of a concrete bridge abutment two and one- half miles north of Dutchtown on Highway 25.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

A car and a pickup collided at 2:20 p.m. on Highway 67 in Neelyville. George Davidson, 80, of Neelyville, driver of the pickup, received bruises to his left hip and was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The pickup pulled from a right shoulder into the path of the car driven by Chester Darr, 61, of Overland. Darr was uninjured.

Richard Allen Koehler, 21, of Jackson suffered minor injuries at 8:30 a.m. when his car ran off the road on a curve and overturned on Route W three miles north of Cape Girardeau.

Koehler was not immediately treated for injuries.

Debra Jeanne Freeman 22, of Chaffee was slightly injured at 9:45 p.m. when the car in which she was riding went out of control on wet pavement on a curve, ran off the left side of the road, hit a dirt embankment and overturned on its top on Route P one mile south of Delta. She was taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

The driver of the car, Robert Elmon Freeman, 20, of Chaffee, was uniniured.

Ruling allows states to close down bars

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6-3 vote the Supreme Court ruled today that the states can shut down bars that feature nude dancers and other "bacchanalian revelries."

Justice William H. Rehnquist, in a sexually explicit majority opinion, said the First Amendment freedom does not go beyond books and movies to "gross sexuality" in public.

Besides, he said, the 21st Amendment in ending Prohibition gave the states broad controls over the sale of liquor in bars and night clubs.

The ruling came in a case from California where officials said, "acts of sexual intercourse, masturbation sodomy, bestiality, oral copulation and flagellation" were being passed off as "dancing" and entertainment.

Rehnquist agreed with the state's appeal. He said prostitution, indecent exposure to young girls and rape flourished near California bars and night clubs in which "live entertainment" was featured.

The decision upholds 1970 regulations authorizing the state's Department of Alchoholic Beverage Control to suspend or revoke a liquor license when officials conclude there is conduct "contrary to public welfare or morals."

The regulation had been declared unconstitutional in April 1971 by a three-judge federal court in Los Angeles empaneled to consider a suit brought by a group of bar owners. That ruling said the state could regulate movies and nude "entertainment" only if it proved at a trial that the exhibitions were obscene.

Justice Rehnquist, in announcing the reversal, said "The department's conclusion, embodied in these regulations, that certain sexual performances and the dispensation of liquor by the drink ought not to occure simultaneously at premises which have licenses was not an irrational one."

Forming the majority with him were the three other Nixon administration appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Lewis F. Powell Jr., as well as Justices Potter Stewart and Byron White.

The court's shrunken liberal bloc, Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, dissented.

Douglas, in a brief and restrained opinion, said the majority had drawn a generally accurate line between "expression" that should be protected by the First Amendment and "conduct" upon which officials may constitutionally act.

Man fined $33 for dwi

CHARLESTON — Paul Harris, 64, of Wyatt, charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants and being involved in an accident at 12:10 p.m. Monday, was fined $33 this morning in City Court.

According to police, Harris, traveling south on First Street, pulled his car into the path of a car driven east on Marshall Street by Louis W. Martin of Cape Girardeau Route Two.

5 treated

Five accident patients were treated Monday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Riley Brown, Jr., 43, Sikeston, fractured right third toe while working on a car; Bobby Young, 18, Sikeston, bruised right elbow in fall; Wendell Shouse Jr., 25, Estherville, Iowa, cut nose in car accident; Donald Babb, 36, Marston, bruised left knee at work; and Glenn Richardson 48, Bell City, received second and third degree burns of hands while putting out house fire.

Firms deny allegations

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A Joplin television station report that several major oil companies plan to cease or curtail sharply retail gasoline operations in parts of the Midwest prompted denials by company spokesmen Tuesday.

Station KUHI reported Monday night the cutback could affect as many as 12 states, including Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Arkansas.

It said Gulf had already announced a cutback.

The station said Shell, Standard, Mobil and Humble also were ready to close retail stations in the area.

In Kansas City, a spokesman for Mobil said the firm has "no current plans to get out of the Midwest," and said it appeared someone had "added two and two and come up with eight."

A spokesman for Standard in Kansas City said there was "no major change in operations that I know of" in the area.

Representatives of the firms in Iowa and Oklahoma also denied any plans to curtail retail operations.

The station reported Gulf Oil Co. had announced the closing of stations in the area valued at more than $230 million.

A Gulf spokesman in St. Louis confirmed the announcement had been made in October.

The Joplin station said an officer of a national advertising agency confirmed the oil firm he represents will stop advertising in the Midwest the first of the year.

Two bound over in New Madrid

NEW MADRID— Two Howardville youths, Clyde Nesbitt and Theodis Johson, each 17, were bound over to Circuit Court Monday on charges of possession of stolen property after waiving preliminary hearing before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth.

Bonds for each were set at $500.

They are accused of having property reported stolen in break- ins Thursday and Saturday nights at Jack Tisher's Furniture Store in Howardville.

Bernie accepts bid

BERNIE-- The City Council accepted a bid of $225 from O. and S. Salvage Co. for the old police car.

The city instituted proceedings to call in $46,000 in outstanding revenue bonds. The legal proceedings will take approximately six months.

Mayor R.B. Woods reported that delivery of the new fire truck is scheduled for the last of December and that the new fire station will be completed by this time.

Police today announced the arrest of Carrie Bee White, 107 Alabama, for displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon and Arlilier Ruth Gator, 315 Sunset Drive, for petit larceny.

Peace session off

PARIS (AP)— The negotiating session today between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho was canceled this morning, but U.S. and North Vietnamese spokesmen said they would meet again Wednesday.

No explanation was given for cancellation to today's meeting. There was speculation that the announcement was a ruse to mislead newsmen, and that President Nixon's national security adviser and the Hanoi Politburo member were planning a secret rendezvous.

Eleven days ago during the last round of Kissinger— Tho negotiations, the North Vietnamese announced that the two men would not meet that day. But they slipped off to a suburban site and conferred for an hour.

Kissinger and Tho resumed negotiations Monday after a nine- day recess, they met for a total of five hours amid a complete news blackout. But officials in Washington said the talks are moving to a climax.

Tho and Xuan Thuy, the head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks met this morning with Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the chief of the Viet Cong delegation to the talks, and other members of her delegation.

Kissinger conferred for an hour Monday night with Pham Dang Lam, the head of the South Vietnamese delegation to the talks.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government kept up its campaign for the cease-fire agreement to include provision for withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam and safeguards to insure that the proposed National Council for Reconciliation and Concord won't turn into a coalition government.

These Saigon demands were outlined once again by South Vietnam's chief delegate to the weekly Paris peace talks, Pham Dang Lam, in a meeting with French journalists.

Despite South Vietnam's continuing insistence on these points, the belief was widespread that the United States is going to agree to the cease- fire this time, regardless of how little the North Vietnamese are ready to concede.

Civic Club's float wins

"Holiday Greeting," sponsored by the Dexter Junior Civic Club won first prize in the Christmas parade float judging Saturday in Dexter.

Junior Civic Club wins first prize

DEXTER — The Junior Civic Club of Dexter won first prize and a check for $50 in Saturday's annual Christmas parade float judging.

The float theme was "Holiday Greeting" and featured mushrooms, elves and Christmas packages.

The parade began at the Big Star Supermarket parking lot and proceeded down Stoddard Street to the city administrative building. Santa Claus and the city's new fire truck were the main attractions in the parade.

Second place was claimed by the Youth Community Betterment Club of Dexter with a float which featured a prisoner in a cage with the theme, "Prisoners of War Have No Christmas". A $25 runner-up check was presented.

Liberty Hill General Baptist Church of Aid was awarded third place and $15 for a float with the theme, "Sailing with Christ".

Ruling allows states to close down bars

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6-3 vote the Supreme Court ruled today that the states can shut down bars that feature nude dancers and other "bacchanalian revelries."

Justice William H. Rehnquist, in a sexually explicit majority opinion, said the First Amendment freedom does not go beyond books and movies to "gross sexuality" in public.

Besides, he said, the 21st Amendment in ending Prohibition gave the states broad controls over the sale of liquor in bars and night clubs.

The ruling came in a case from California where officials said, "acts of sexual intercourse, masturbation sodomy, bestiality, oral copulation and flagellation" were being passed off as "dancing" and entertainment.

Rehnquist agreed with the state's appeal. He said prostitution, indecent exposure to young girls and rape flourished near California bars and night clubs in which "live entertainment" was featured.

The decision upholds 1970 regulations authorizing the state's Department of Alchoholic Beverage Control to suspend or revoke a liquor license when officials conclude there is conduct "contrary to public welfare or morals."

The regulation had been declared unconstitutional in April 1971 by a three-judge federal court in Los Angeles empaneled to consider a suit brought by a group of bar owners. That ruling said the state could regulate movies and nude "entertainment" only if it proved at a trial that the exhibitions were obscene.

Justice Rehnquist, in announcing the reversal, said "The department's conclusion, embodied in these regulations, that certain sexual performances and the dispensation of liquor by the drink ought not to occure simultaneously at premises which have licenses was not an irrational one."

Forming the majority with him were the three other Nixon administration appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Lewis F. Powell Jr., as well as Justices Potter Stewart and Byron White.

The court's shrunken liberal bloc, Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, dissented.

Douglas, in a brief and restrained opinion, said the majority had drawn a generally accurate line between "expression" that should be protected by the First Amendment and "conduct" upon which officials may constitutionally act.

Man fined $33 for dwi

CHARLESTON — Paul Harris, 64, of Wyatt, charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants and being involved in an accident at 12:10 p.m. Monday, was fined $33 this morning in City Court.

According to police, Harris, traveling south on First Street, pulled his car into the path of a car driven east on Marshall Street by Louis W. Martin of Cape Girardeau Route Two.

5 treated

Five accident patients were treated Monday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Riley Brown, Jr., 43, Sikeston, fractured right third toe while working on a car; Bobby Young, 18, Sikeston, bruised right elbow in fall; Wendell Shouse Jr., 25, Estherville, Iowa, cut nose in car accident; Donald Babb, 36, Marston, bruised left knee at work; and Glenn Richardson 48, Bell City, received second and third degree burns of hands while putting out house fire.

Firms deny allegations

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A Joplin television station report that several major oil companies plan to cease or curtail sharply retail gasoline operations in parts of the Midwest prompted denials by company spokesmen Tuesday.

Station KUHI reported Monday night the cutback could affect as many as 12 states, including Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Arkansas.

It said Gulf had already announced a cutback.

The station said Shell, Standard, Mobil and Humble also were ready to close retail stations in the area.

In Kansas City, a spokesman for Mobil said the firm has "no current plans to get out of the Midwest," and said it appeared someone had "added two and two and come up with eight."

A spokesman for Standard in Kansas City said there was "no major change in operations that I know of" in the area.

Representatives of the firms in Iowa and Oklahoma also denied any plans to curtail retail operations.

The station reported Gulf Oil Co. had announced the closing of stations in the area valued at more than $230 million.

A Gulf spokesman in St. Louis confirmed the announcement had been made in October.

The Joplin station said an officer of a national advertising agency confirmed the oil firm he represents will stop advertising in the Midwest the first of the year.

Bryan named to park board

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — C. Lee Bryan, Poplar Bluff Republican, was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today to the state Park Board for a four-year term.

He succeeds Robert M. Wolpers, Poplar Bluff, publisher of the Daily American-Republic, who is senior member of the board after 12 years of service. He has been board chairman several times.

4 injured

Three persons were slightly injured and one person was seriously injured in four area traffic accidents Monday according to the highway patrol.

Joe Tetley, 77, of Farmington was critically injured at 10:10 a.m. when his pickup ran off the road and struck the end of a concrete bridge abutment two and one- half miles north of Dutchtown on Highway 25.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

A car and a pickup collided at 2:20 p.m. on Highway 67 in Neelyville. George Davidson, 80, of Neelyville, driver of the pickup, received bruises to his left hip and was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The pickup pulled from a right shoulder into the path of the car driven by Chester Darr, 61, of Overland. Darr was uninjured.

Richard Allen Koehler, 21, of Jackson suffered minor injuries at 8:30 a.m. when his car ran off the road on a curve and overturned on Route W three miles north of Cape Girardeau.

Koehler was not immediately treated for injuries.

Debra Jeanne Freeman 22, of Chaffee was slightly injured at 9:45 p.m. when the car in which she was riding went out of control on wet pavement on a curve, ran off the left side of the road, hit a dirt embankment and overturned on its top on Route P one mile south of Delta. She was taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

The driver of the car, Robert Elmon Freeman, 20, of Chaffee, was uniniured.

Two bound over in New Madrid

NEW MADRID— Two Howardville youths, Clyde Nesbitt and Theodis Johson, each 17, were bound over to Circuit Court Monday on charges of possession of stolen property after waiving preliminary hearing before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth.

Bonds for each were set at $500.

They are accused of having property reported stolen in break- ins Thursday and Saturday nights at Jack Tisher's Furniture Store in Howardville.

Bernie accepts bid

BERNIE-- The City Council accepted a bid of $225 from O. and S. Salvage Co. for the old police car.

The city instituted proceedings to call in $46,000 in outstanding revenue bonds. The legal proceedings will take approximately six months.

Mayor R.B. Woods reported that delivery of the new fire truck is scheduled for the last of December and that the new fire station will be completed by this time.

Second job results in "pep pill" hang-up

DEAR ANN LANDERS; I have a serious problem and don't know who to turn to. Please help. I am 23, male, with a fine wife and two small children. About four months ago I started to work a second job to make more money. I began to take "pep pills" when one of the guys at the second job told me that's how he got the energy to carry him through a second shift. Now I am hooked.

I realize I'm addicted to oral Speed and it is killing me. I feel like a revved up motor with no brakes. Twice I tried to quit but I couldn't keep my eyes open. I can't tell my wife I'm hooked on cross- tops. It would kill her if she knew. This lousy stuff is making a paranoid nut out of me. Do you know of an anti- amphetane I could switch to that would give me the energy I need and get me out of this junkie routine? I'm desperate.-- Portland Troubles

Dear P.T.: You can be helped by a doctor if you follow his instructions. I implore you not to try to treat yourself. You did that once and you see where it landed you!

Dear Ann Landers: Two and a half months ago my mother- in- law left her husband. Every weekend since the separation she has been at our house. She is a very nice person, but I think she is mixed up.

The reason for the split is that my father- in- law has a bad temper and has beaten her up several times. She says she hates the sight of him and there is no chance that they will ever get together again. Yet every weekend she telephones him and he comes over and they go off together until all hours of the night.

The next day she says she had a rotten time and she wishes he would leave her alone. She must not remember that we know SHE called HIM. She tells everyone a different story.

My husband and I have been married only a year and his mother keeps our home in constant turmoil. We have no free time together since we both work and the weekends are taken over by his mother. He says he can't abandon her in her hour of trouble. Any suggestions?--- Fight Fight Fight

Dear Fight: You need an impartial person, a doctor or a clergyman for example, to make it clear to your husband that his major concern should be his own marriage because his mother's is already a mess and there is nothing he can do about it.

Dear Ann Landers: People gripe through your column a lot, so please give me my turn.

To Whom It May Concern-- Namely, all you empty- headed idiots who keep asking me if I'm going to be a doctor just because my dad is one:

The answer is NO. The reason I am working as a janitor in a doctor's office is because I am under legal age to get a job. I hate it when someone says, "Oh, so you're going to be a doctor, too!" Or when I put a bandage on a kid in the neighborhood who has a scratch they say, "Practicing medicine, just like your dad!"

I wish people would quit saying it. It gets on my nerves. I'll bet this goes for lots of doctors' sons. How about a smart answer for these kooks?-- I Want To Be An Architect

Dear Arch: You don't need a smart answer-- try a calm and reasonable one. There is no law that says a son must follow his father's occupation. On the other hand, why are you so hostile to your dad? Think about that for a while, son.

A no- nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage-- What To Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Allen-Rowland

DEXTER — Wedding vows uniting Miss Mary Allce Rowland of Dexter and Jackie Don Allen of Gray Ridge were exchanged Nov. 4, at Duck Creek Baptist Church in Puxico.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowland of Dexter, and the groom is the son of C. C. Allen and the late Beulah Allen of Gray Ridge. The single-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jerry Park.

The altar setting featured a center row of double candles of light blue with tree candles on each side and large ferns in a complete semi-circle with large baskets of white mums with deep blue, velvet bows. The pews were marked with white bows.

Mrs. Vickie Dollar of Kinder, cousin of the bride, was pianist and played, "Sounds of Silence'. and "Somewhere My Love." Tommy Menley, cousin of the birde, sang, "Walk Hand In Hand" and "Theme from Romeo and Juliet."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress was of lutesong and was fashioned by her mother. It consisted of a round neckline with long sleeves ending in ruffles at the wrist. Double rows of lace with tinges of blue accented the bodice skirt with deep ruffles and cuffs. It was gathered at the empire waistline and made in the A-line style. The floor-length, tiered veil of illusion was etched with the same lace. The headpiece was of lace and pearls with a ribbon bouquet of a cascade of daisy mums with tinted-blue, baby breath ribbons throughout the flowers.

Beverly Rowland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of floral design and shaded tones of blue with deep ruffles at the hemline, bodice and sleeves. The empire waist featured flat bow in back accented by white lace. She carried a white lace fan with a bouquet of daisy mums and blue velvet ribbon.

Bridesmaids were former classmates of the bride, Miss Beth Fitzpatrick of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Joyce Goode of Pontiac, Mich. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Kelly Hendrix of Alton, Ill., niece of the bride, and Miss Vicki Allen of Ellington, niece of the groom. Their gowns were the same as that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaids wore the same style but in shades of green.

Miss Angela Rea Ledbetter of Dexter was flower girl. She was attired in a green gown and carried a white lace basket filled with daisy and mum petals.

Curt Allen of Ellington, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

Fayne Allen, brother of the groom, was best man. The groomsmen were Allen Parsley of Puxico, cousin of the bride, and Ronnie Ledbetter of Essex.

Ushers and candlelighters were Edward Parsley of Puxico and Lloyd Hyten of Dexter, cousins of the bride.

A reception was held at the community center in Dexter. It was decorated in blue and green. The table was decorated with a white cloth and a three-tiered cake with four bell shapes at the base. A small Bible of sugar was in front of the cake. The center of the table had white tapers flanked with Kelly green and royal blue candles and a white daisy arrangement. There were blue flowers around the base of the punch bowl and on the table. The centerpiece was composed of a white candle and blue flowers.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dennis Rowland of Dexter, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Lawrence Godfrey of Cape Girardeau, Mrs. Richard Hawthorn of Imperial, cousin of the bride; and Mrs. Tommy Menley of Dexter, cousin of the bride.

Susan Hyten, cousin of the bride, was at the guest book. Her dress was floor length with white lace on Kelly green.

A rehearsal dinner was held Nov. 3 at the home of the bride's parents for members of the wedding party and friends.

The groom is self-employed and is a graduate of the Gray Ridge high School. The bride is a graduate of Dexter High School and the Baptist Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and is a nurse at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Correction

In Friday's edition of The Daily Standard, it was incorrectly reported that Mrs. Sue Gardner received the Thanks Badge, Girl Scouting's highest honor, presented by her daughter Connie Gardner. Her daughter is Carolyn Foley from Ashville, N.C., who traveled to Sikeston especially for Thursday night's annual Cotton Boll Council meeting.

Pharmacists hear drug talk

POPLAR BLUFF — Ernie Sjoblem, head of the new State Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, spoke at the second meeting of the newly formed Southeast Missouri Pharmaceutical Association Nov. 30 at Holiday Inn.

Sjoblem, a Jefferson City pharmacist, informed members of recent drug laws and records that a pharmacist is required to keep on narcotics.

President Buddy Largent of Sikeston presided at the meeting.

The association was formed to help keep community pharmacists up to date on all areas of pharmacy administration.

About 50 pharmacists and drug salesmen from the Bootheel area attended.

Allen-Rowland

DEXTER — Wedding vows uniting Miss Mary Allce Rowland of Dexter and Jackie Don Allen of Gray Ridge were exchanged Nov. 4, at Duck Creek Baptist Church in Puxico.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowland of Dexter, and the groom is the son of C. C. Allen and the late Beulah Allen of Gray Ridge. The single-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jerry Park.

The altar setting featured a center row of double candles of light blue with tree candles on each side and large ferns in a complete semi-circle with large baskets of white mums with deep blue, velvet bows. The pews were marked with white bows.

Mrs. Vickie Dollar of Kinder, cousin of the bride, was pianist and played, "Sounds of Silence'. and "Somewhere My Love." Tommy Menley, cousin of the birde, sang, "Walk Hand In Hand" and "Theme from Romeo and Juliet."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress was of lutesong and was fashioned by her mother. It consisted of a round neckline with long sleeves ending in ruffles at the wrist. Double rows of lace with tinges of blue accented the bodice skirt with deep ruffles and cuffs. It was gathered at the empire waistline and made in the A-line style. The floor-length, tiered veil of illusion was etched with the same lace. The headpiece was of lace and pearls with a ribbon bouquet of a cascade of daisy mums with tinted-blue, baby breath ribbons throughout the flowers.

Beverly Rowland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of floral design and shaded tones of blue with deep ruffles at the hemline, bodice and sleeves. The empire waist featured flat bow in back accented by white lace. She carried a white lace fan with a bouquet of daisy mums and blue velvet ribbon.

Bridesmaids were former classmates of the bride, Miss Beth Fitzpatrick of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Joyce Goode of Pontiac, Mich. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Kelly Hendrix of Alton, Ill., niece of the bride, and Miss Vicki Allen of Ellington, niece of the groom. Their gowns were the same as that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaids wore the same style but in shades of green.

Miss Angela Rea Ledbetter of Dexter was flower girl. She was attired in a green gown and carried a white lace basket filled with daisy and mum petals.

Curt Allen of Ellington, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

Fayne Allen, brother of the groom, was best man. The groomsmen were Allen Parsley of Puxico, cousin of the bride, and Ronnie Ledbetter of Essex.

Ushers and candlelighters were Edward Parsley of Puxico and Lloyd Hyten of Dexter, cousins of the bride.

A reception was held at the community center in Dexter. It was decorated in blue and green. The table was decorated with a white cloth and a three-tiered cake with four bell shapes at the base. A small Bible of sugar was in front of the cake. The center of the table had white tapers flanked with Kelly green and royal blue candles and a white daisy arrangement. There were blue flowers around the base of the punch bowl and on the table. The centerpiece was composed of a white candle and blue flowers.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dennis Rowland of Dexter, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Lawrence Godfrey of Cape Girardeau, Mrs. Richard Hawthorn of Imperial, cousin of the bride; and Mrs. Tommy Menley of Dexter, cousin of the bride.

Susan Hyten, cousin of the bride, was at the guest book. Her dress was floor length with white lace on Kelly green.

A rehearsal dinner was held Nov. 3 at the home of the bride's parents for members of the wedding party and friends.

The groom is self-employed and is a graduate of the Gray Ridge high School. The bride is a graduate of Dexter High School and the Baptist Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and is a nurse at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Correction

In Friday's edition of The Daily Standard, it was incorrectly reported that Mrs. Sue Gardner received the Thanks Badge, Girl Scouting's highest honor, presented by her daughter Connie Gardner. Her daughter is Carolyn Foley from Ashville, N.C., who traveled to Sikeston especially for Thursday night's annual Cotton Boll Council meeting.

Pharmacists hear drug talk

POPLAR BLUFF — Ernie Sjoblem, head of the new State Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, spoke at the second meeting of the newly formed Southeast Missouri Pharmaceutical Association Nov. 30 at Holiday Inn.

Sjoblem, a Jefferson City pharmacist, informed members of recent drug laws and records that a pharmacist is required to keep on narcotics.

President Buddy Largent of Sikeston presided at the meeting.

The association was formed to help keep community pharmacists up to date on all areas of pharmacy administration.

About 50 pharmacists and drug salesmen from the Bootheel area attended.

Swim Program

Young seals can't swim at birth and have to learn to swim, with aid from their mother. When tired, the pup is usually given a lift on the mother's back.

Correction

The Daily Standard received a letter Friday stating that Miss Mary Sue Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Compton, was engaged to Gregory Branum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Branum.

The Standard has since learned that the engagement announcement was a fake.

From now on, all engagements presented for publication must have a name, address and telephone number, so authenticity can be checked.

How to select your Christmas tree

Most families will select their Christmas tree within the next three weeks. A few simple procedures can make the selection of a "perfect" Christmas tree easier.

Determine where in your home you will display your tree. With this in mind, you will be able to tell what height you will need and whether all four sides must be suitable for display.

You should select a tree that is the right height for the space you have chosen for it. Cutting large portions off either end will alter the natural taper of the tree.

Freshness is an important key when selecting your tree. The needles should be resilient but not brittle. Run your finger down a branch -- the needles should adhere to each twig.

Shake or bounce the tree on the ground lightly to see that the needles are firmly attached. If only a few drop off, the tree is fresh and with proper care should retain its freshness indoors throughout the holiday season.

The limbs should be strong enough to hold ornaments and strings of electric lights and the tree should hage a strong fragrance and good green color for the species.

Check the tree for freshness, cleanness, health and trimming and be sure it displays the best qualities for the particular species.

Following these steps should insure a healthy, attractive tree but the care of your tree does not stop here.

If you buy your tree several days before it will be set up and decorated, store it outside. cut the butt of the tree at a diagonal about one inch above the original cut -- this opens the pores and aids in the absorption of water. Place the butt end in a container of water.

When you bring it into the house, saw the butt again, squaring off the diagonal. This facilitates placing the tree in a stand as well as aiding absorption.

Keep the butt end of the tree in a container of water the entire time it is in the house. Refill the container daily as the tree requires a lot of water.

This Cricketeer doubleknit looks good from any angle.

The patterns and colorings of this Cricketeer suit are so great that you sometimes forget how well the fabric performs. It's a carefree doubleknit of Dacron* polyester and wool that's comfortable and flexible. Bends any way you do and bounces back into shape. The tailoring complements the pattern work in a shaped two-button model with flapped pockets and a high center vent. The price tag looks great, too.

Eight named to All-State

Eight Southeast Missouri athletes have been honored by the Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association as All- State football players. Twenty- one others were accorded honorable mention.

The eight named to All-State teams included:

PAUL SCHERMANN — An outstanding runningback for Coach Gary Lynch at Cape Girardeau Central this year. The 185- pounder gained over 1,300 yards rushing, averaged nearly 10 yards per carry and scored 116 points. HIs figures are even more outstanding since lopsided scores kept him from logging much second-half playing time.

KEVIN MITCHELL — a 220- pound immovable object in the middle of the Cape Girardeau line. The senior nose guard led the Tiger charge on defense and is a fine college candidate.

TONY BROWN — A 205-pounder who has expressed his desire to play pro football and definitely has the talent and desire to accomplish this goal. With amazing speed for his size, the bulky Cape Central senior was a terror on the linebacker blitz.

LOREN SIDES - One of few juniors to be named to the all- state teams. The fleet tall back in Jackson's wishbone formation gained 1,013 yards, ranking second to Schermann in most offensive categories.

ALAN ENGLAND — Accorded the honor of being the southeast Missouri district's top lineman in three-A, the 200- pounder was the most effective defender in the Southern Division this year for the Dexter Bearcats.

DAVID TIPPEN — One of the few repeaters on any of the teams this year, the Kennett senior, named as three-A kicker, has booted two field goals of over 50 yards and won three games with his toe.

JEROME MAXIE — An honorable mention choice last year accorded the first team honor this season for fine end play with the Hayti Indians.

SCOTT THOMAS — A 6-foot-7, 245- pound tackle honored not for his tackle play, but for his prodigious punts. The senior from Chaffee has averaged over 45 yards per punt for the past two years.

The 21 players given honorable mention included three Sikeston players:

BILL COLWICK — Named all- district despite being passed over for all-conference honors. The senior signal- caller threw for 1,250 yards behind an inexperienced line, after flinging for 1,300 yards the year before. He holds nearly every career passing mark for SHS and was easily the best passer in the SeMo district.

GLEN GUTTENFELDER — A broken ankle with two games to go most likely cost the senior a place on the all-state team. This season he caught 35 passess for 729 yards in just eight games. The shifty receiver accomplished this despite double and triple team coverage most of the year.

SHANE WAGGONER — Giving up as much as 40 pounds many times this year, he still managed to more than hold his own in all 10 games Sikeston played. The rangy junior was one of Sikeston's leading tacklers and has another year to "bang some heads."

The other Southeast Missouri players to receive honorable mention included: (4-A)— Dan Todt, Cape Central; Steve Lampe, Poplar Bluff; J. B. Hayes, Poplar Bluff; Steve Taylor, Cape Central; Tuttie Hayes, Poplar Bluff. (3-A)— Larry Meuller, Perryville; Ted Leimer, Jackson; Lawrence Swan,Jackson; Bruce Bishop, Dexter; Clint Collier, Jackson; Mike Kranz, Kennett; Alan McRoy, Dexter; Mike Litzelfelner, Jackson; Robert Pulliam, Kennett. (2-A)— Dan Holder, ISC; Mark Cross, Portageville; Randy Williams, Portageville; Jim Bradfield, Portageville.

Bulldogs upset

SIKESTON– The first annual Sikeston Invitational Tournament got under way with three games at spacious Sikeston Fieldhouse Monday night.

The Sikeston Bulldogs fell before a late charge by the Poplar Bluff Mules, 62- 49 in the opener. Hayti notched a 43- 30 win over Gideon's Bulldogs in the second game. The nightcap was the most exciting as a last- second free throw gave Richland a 49- 48 upset win over the injury-ridden Chaffee Red Devils.

Sikeston opened its season on a losing note for the first time in several years, bowing to the Mules in a mistake- filled game, which included 37 turnovers with the Mules making 21 of them. However, Sikeston showed first game jitters, especially in the shooting game, hitting just 27.6 per cent from the field and 13 of 26 free throws. The Mules were cold shooting as well.

The Bluff City boys, playing their fourth game of the season, hit just 32.8 per cent of the field goal attempts but managed to sack 22 of 33 free throws.

The game produced 52 fouls 27 by Sikeston's pressure defense.

The defense was encouraging to the Sikeston coaching staff. Coach N.P. McDaniel indicated he was especially pleased with the defensive effort of Roy Bowman, a football player just beginning to get his bearings on the basketball court. Also pleasing to Sikeston fans was the play of sophomore Roger Tillman. The lanky center grabbed 10 rebounds in his short stay on the court and shot well, also.

Sikeston's leading pointmaker was Ronald Marks. The 5- foot- 9 guard had some shooting difficulties, but still managed to score 14 points. The Dogs' most productive player was 6- foot- 3 Jeremiah Tucker. The senior pivotman blocked six shots, collared 15 rebounds and scored 13 points.

The high- point man for the Mules was 6- foot- 2 Robert Harget, a senior frontliner who hit nine of 12 free throws en route to 17 points. But, the spark plug for Poplar Bluff was Don Johnson. The junior guard, after playing sparingly in the first half, came back to score 14 points in the final 16 minutes of play.

The game opened with Sikeston making the usual first- game mistakes, throwing away passes and other trivial ball control problems. Poplar Bluff, despite shooting difficulties led 18- 10 after the first period.

Sikeston turned it all around in the second quarter. The tough Bulldog defense, led by Bowman and Donnie Taylor, halted the Bluff offense while the Bulldog offense racked up 18 points to pull to a 28-24 halftime lead.

The third quarter was a poor one for the Sikeston forees. Poor shooting was a problem, and the Bulldogs also began to lose the battle of the backboards. Outscored 14- 10 for the period, the Bulldogs entered the last quarter all tied up, 38- 38.

The last quarter was a disaster for the Dogs. The Mules spurted, outscoring Sikeston 13 to 2, then held on for the win over the desperate Bulldogs.

The second game of the night was a lackluster affair. The Hayti Indians, despite cold shooting, held off the Gideon Bulldogs and took the win. The Indians used superior rebounding to establish the upper hand, especially in the last quarter.

Oscar Cushinberry was top scorer for Hayti with 12 points. Teammate Jerome Maxie added 10. Joe Murphy was leading scorer for Gideon with eight.

The nightcap was the evening's best game, depending upon which side of the mini- dome you were sitting. The third- seeded Chaffee Red Devils ran into the upstart Richland Rebels and were upset 49 to 48. The winning point was scored by 5- foot- 7 Ray Clark with 17 seconds showing on the fieldhouse clock. Seconds earlier John Richbourg had failed on two free- throw attempts for Chaffee.

Chaffee's 6- foot- 7 Scott Thomas, reportedly suffering from a sprained ankle, was unable to maneuver underneath and scored just nine points, or about 15 below his average. Thomas was also unable to say on the boards with his smaller opponents. Richland's Robert Jones, giving up seven inches to the 245- pound Thomas, went over the Red Devil pivotman time and again for rebounds, as the smaller Rebs completely dominated the boards.

Pete Dooley, despite a below- average night shooting, led Red Devil scoring with 13 points. Glen Christy added 11.

The leading player and scorer for Richland was playmaker Rodney McKellar, the only returning starter from last year's third- place finishers in state competition, who pumped in 20 points on long "bombs." The 5- foot- 11 guard-forward was all over the court, stealing the ball, rebounding and staying in the Red Devils' hair most of the time.

Chaffee led most of the way despite rebounding troubles. The third quarter, in which the Red Devils were outscored 18- 12 proved their downfall. Then, an attempted stall with a slim two- point lead and five minutes to go backfired as two or three costly floor mistakes cost the Devils dearly.

The Red Devils will meet the Sikeston Bulldogs in a 6:30 game tonight as the tournament goes into its second round. The nightcap will be a rematch of last week's clash at Charleston, as the Blue Jays will be out to avenge a 71- 70 setback at the hands of the Poplar Bluff Mules

GOVERNOR HEARNES REFLECTS ON EIGHT YEARS IN OFFICE

JEFFERSON CITY — According to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, the greatest challenge he faced during his soon to be ended administration was to "do what the people wanted with the least amount of money."

Missourians want the state to provide certain services, Hearnes said, but "they don't want to pay the costs."

The first man to succeed himself as governor of the state, Hearnes said he has mixed feelings about stepping down from the office he has held for eight years. He said he was "relieved" to turn the job over to another person, but being governor has "got to be the greatest honor in the state of Missouri."

Hearnes said he was especially proud of advancements made in health and education under his administration. During his two terms, state aid to higher education was raised from $45 million to $144 million. Nine regional diagnostic and treatment clinics for the mentally retarded were created. "Mental health was at the bottom of the ladder when we came in and now it is at the top," he said.

Other changes during his administration included 1,000 new manufacturing industries which came to Missouri; the construction of a new highway patrol academy; the addition of 33 members to the Human Rights Commission; and enactment of the state's first air pollution law.

Hearnes said the one thing that he had failed to accomplish during his administration that he had hoped to was the creation of more four- lane highways throughout the state. Still more than 350 miles of four-lane highway was completed during his tenure.

Commenting on his relationship with the legislative branch, Hearnes said he had enjoyed a good relationship with the House and Senate during his first four years. But, he said, he was shocked after winning the second term to have a revolt by certain senators who were "trying to take over the responsibilities of the governor instead of working with the governor." He said Sen. Earl Blackwell told him he wanted to be governor in 1972 and thought the way to achieve this was to fight him in the Senate.

On the subject of his successor, Hearnes said it would be difficult for him to say what Gov.- elect Christopher "Kit" Bond's strengths and weaknesses would be, but that Bond's lack of legislative experience would hurt him.

Hearnes began his career in Missouri politics more than 22 years ago when he was elected to the House of Representatives from Mississippi County, the youngest man ever elected state representative from that county. At that time he was in his first year of law school at the University of Missouri, married, with one child and "another on the way."

In 1952, Hearnes graduated from law school and was elected to the second of five consecutive terms in the House. He served as majority floor leader in the House in 1957 and 1959. He was elected secretary of state in 1960 and four years later began his first term as the state's 46th governor.

Now 49, Hearnes has announced plans to enter the private practice of law after he leaves the governor's office. But his name has been mentioned as a possibility to replace Democratic Chairman Jean Westwood if she resigns.

Hearnes said that he hadn't given it any thought, but he would not deny that he would accept the position if it were offered to him.

Spainhower plans hike in interest funds

ST. LOUIS — Banks holding state money without paying interest on it can expect to lose some of it during the administration of treasurer-elect James Spainhower.

Spainhower, one of two Democratic statewide office seekers to survive this year's Republican trend, said Thursday he plans to reduce the demand accounts, kept in three major banks. The state uses these accounts in its day to day business.

December traffic calls for extra precautions

JEFFERSON CITY — Reduced visibility, poor traction and holiday drinking during the month of December call for drivers and pedestrians to make an adjustment in their traffic behavior, according to Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Visibility is reduced during this time of the year by earlier darkness and inclement weather," the Colonel pointed out. "Traction is often much less certain when driving and walking surfaces are made slippery by rain, ice and snow. The increased amount of drinking of intoxicating beverages during the holiday season also contributes to the hazards associated with December."

The patrol superintendent stated that drivers and pedestrians can compensate for these hazards by making the following adjustments: For good visibility, a driver needs strong windshield wiper arms and good blades, defroster and headlights on his vehicle; for adequate traction, use tire chains when severe snow conditions exist. A driver must also reduce speed on slippery roads.

Pedestrians will find it advisable to avoid sudden dashing across a street when it is slippery, because drivers will require longer distance for stopping; drinking alcoholic beverages to any extent can reduce judgment, self- control and over- all ability. Drivers should refrain from operating a motor vehicle after drinking intoxicants. Pedestrians should also stay out of traffic if they have been consuming alcohol.

"Ninety- four persons lost their lives in Missouri traffic accidents last year during the month of December," Colonel Hockaday noted. "I urge you to drive and walk with extra care and to adjust to the hazards associated with this month."

Burglary and stealing charges are dismissed

BLOOMFIELD — Burglary and stealing charges against Tommy E. Jones of Dexter were dismissed after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Koss W. Blomeyer. Jones was charged with breaking into the home of Dempsey Gardner Jr. at Essex Route One in September.

Other charges against Jones were set for Dec. 14. He is charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, felonious assault and nonsupport.

In a preliminary hearing for Harmon Fish of Bloomfield, charged with stealing two guns from the home of Walter Morlan in Bloomfield, Fish was bound over to Circuit Court on Dec. 8.

William Thompson, James E. Gross and Gary Michael Bollinger of St. Louis pleaded guilty to charges of stealing and were placed on parole for one year under supervision.

Abner McCoy, 17, and Greggory Bain, 17, both of Bell City, pleaded guilty to charges of tempering with a motor vehicle belonging to Roy Alberson of Bell City. Both were placed on parole for one year with supervision by the probation and parole office. Charges of stealing against both were dismissed at cost of the defendants.

Walter Kirby Jr., charged with stealing, case dismissed at $25 cost to defendant plus court costs.

Breaking and entering charges against John Kellick and Gary Durall were dismissed, with Durall receiving a six- month suspended sentence and placed under supervision. Kellick, who was also charged with felonious assault received one year in jail and was placed on probation and parole.

Anthony Dwain Delay, Richard Allen Clark and James Earl Lewis, charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, had preliminary hearing set for Dec. 6.

Harold Miller of Sikeston and Ted Lathum of Matthews pleaded guilty to charges of till- tapping soft- drink machines in Bernie and Dexter. Both were placed on parole for one year and paid court costs of $39.30 each.

John David Storm and Darrell Lee Brawley, charged with stealing, had preliminary hearing set for Dec. 14.

Glen D. Richardson, charged with peace disturbance, had case set by agreement for Dec. 21.

A written plea of guilty to a charge of hunting without a permit was entered by Woodrow Stroud, who was fined $5 and court costs.

Homer Wayne Hemby entered a written plea of guilty to the charge of failing to transfer license. He was fined $10 and court costs.

Travis James Moody of Advance pleaded guilty to the charge of having an inadequate muffler on his vehicle and was fined $10 and court costs.

Hershel McElwrath of Kennett pleaded guilty to a charge of exceeding the limit on his license. He paid a fine of $10 and court costs.

Edwin Dewayne Robinson pleaded builty to a charge of possession of an intoxicating liquor by a minor and was fined $50 and costs.

Russell L. Glenn of Dexter entered a written plea of guilty to the charge of having no valid operators license and was fined $10 and costs.

James E. Hopper of Salcedo, pleaded guilty to the charge of having no operator's license and was fined $10 and costs.

Earnest L. Jones of Puxico pleaded guilty to the charge of having an expired operator's license and causing an accident. He was fined $15 and court costs.

Margaret Higgins of Bernie pleaded guilty to the charge of having no operator's license and was fined $10 and costs.

Leroy Greggory and Harley R. Fritts were charged with hunting deer on the Mingo Refuge, which is prohibited. Greggory pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs. Fritts pleaded not guilty and had his hearing set for Dec. 7.

Wooford Flannery pleaded not guilty to the charge of driving while intoxicated and his case was set for Dec. 6.

Kenneth Lee Griffin, charged with driving while his license was revoked, had case continued to Dec. 7.

Raymond Linville of Advance, charged with having expired vehicle license, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Carolyn James, charged with no- funds check, pleaded guilty and was placed under supervision for six months.

Dwayne C. Wiggins pleaded not guilty to moving a motor vehicle after hours with improper moving permit. His case was set for Dec. 14.

Harvey Nunn of Exxex pleaded guilty to the charge of careless and imprudent driving and causing an accident and was fined $15 and costs.

Charles Nunn pleaded guilty to the charge of no-funds check in the amount of $60. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Jennings Bryan Ashcraft of Brownwood and Allen Clarence Jones of Puxico pleaded guilty to charges of careless and imprudent driving and causing an accident. Their fines were set at $15 each and court costs.

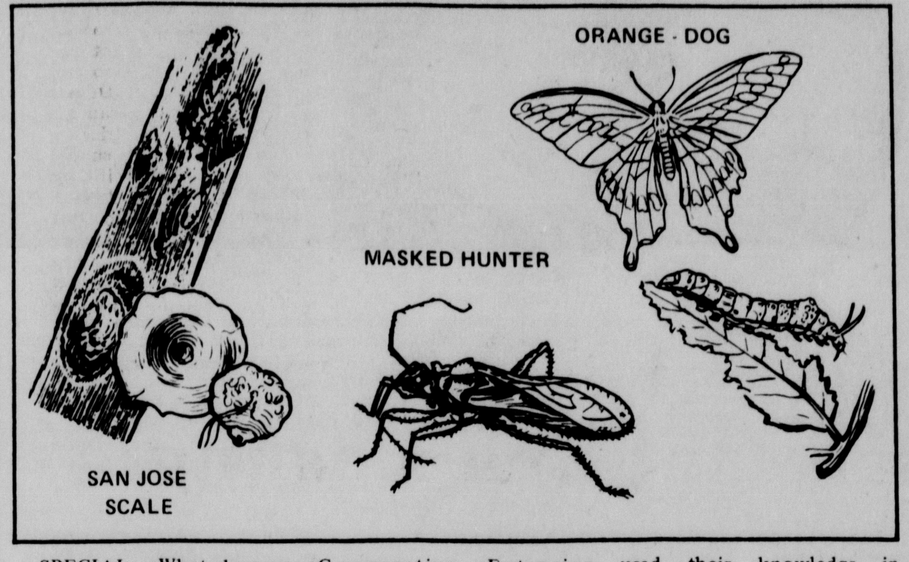
4-H'ers Find Bugs Not Just Spiders and Flies



SPECIAL - What does an orange dog, San Jose scale and a masked hunter, have in common? They are insects! Just three of hundreds of species which 4-H members learn about in the national 4-H entomology program.

An orange dog is an insect whose larva feeds on orange trees and gives off a bad odor. San Jose scale disfigures fruits and kills trees. Masked hunters infest houses looking for bugs to eat, but they attack animals and humans with a painful bite and their larva attract dust.

Working in the national 4-H entomology program, sponsored by Hercules Incorporated, some 56,000 4-H members also learn about other strange sounding insects like wheat stem sawfly, shot-hole borers, plus common beetles, worms and flying insects.

Under supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, they learn how to look for, identify and control, all varieties of insects. And they use their knowledge to benefit others in their community. Like Sharon Kay Rogers, of Bailey, Miss., a 1971 national winner in the entomology program, who surveyed her town to discover if fire ants existed. The fire ant kills small animals like chickens and puppies and causes painful bites in humans and large animals.

Out of 202 surveys, the 4-H'ers found fire ants at all but one place. Using many methods, she alerted the community to the dangers caused by fire ants and informed state and federal agriculture officials of the danger. The fire ant is now being controlled in her community.

Other young people have used their knowledge in mosquito abatement programs, collecting insects for laboratories and exchanging specimens with teens around the world.

Learning about insects is fun and rewarding 4-H'ers say. They point to the recognition offered by Hercules including four medals of honor to outstanding members in each county, a $50 U.S. savings bond to a state winner and the opportunity to try for one of sixteen expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress.

At the national 4-H event in Chicago, Nov. 26-30, scholarships of $700 each will be awarded six national winners.

For interesting experiences in the 4-H entomology program, contact the county extension office.

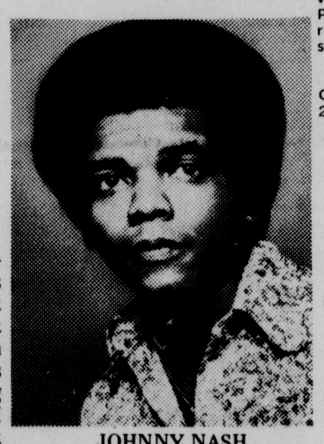
Nash Finally Hits Top via Jamaica

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer



JOHNNY NASH

Johnny Nash's song, which he wrote, sings and recorded in Jamaica, "I Can See Clearly Now," went to No. 2 on the best-selling record chart on Nov. 11. "It's the biggest hit of my whole life," Nash says, his eyes sparkling. "Every time you go in a recording studio you're hoping that this is a hit, let alone No. 1.

"I've been going into studios now I guess 10 years. You see so many records become No. 1 but not yours and you start to wonder, 'What is a No. 1 record and do I have one in me?' This just gives you courage."

Nash, who is 32, has been professionally in show business more than half his life. At 16 he left his home in Houston for New York to be a regular on the Arthur Godfrey Show. At 16 also he has his first "mildly successful record," "A Very Special Love." During seven years with Godfrey, Nash continued to record and was in some movies.

When the contract with ABC-Paramount ran out, "I went with Warner Brothers for a minute, RCA for a minute and Chess for a few seconds. I think it was basically me; I was in search for something. It wasn't really happening. Certain songs would come up and I would think how I'd like to do them but between the inception and the finished product it never seemed to jell, for various reasons.

"I decided to produce my own records. I came up with 'Let's Move and Groove Together,' which I wrote and put out on Joda, my own label. It was a top 5 rhythm 'n' blues record for me but it wasn't as big as 'A Very Special Love,' which had gone pop.

"Then I came up with 'Hold Me Tight.' I think it went top 3 nationally pop and sold around 6 or 700,000, but r and b stations wouldn't play it. It was on Jad, which I owned with a partner.

"I tell you the truth, I was trying to figure it out, why some songs would be played on pop stations and some on rhythm 'n' blues stations, but if one played it the other wouldn't. I couldn't tell any difference in the songs. I was caught up in that for years. It has been one of my biggest problems.

"I did 'Cupid,' which was a Sam Cooke tune, about three years ago. He was my favorite. He influenced me a lot, since early gospel days.

"After 'Cupid,' I went to Sweden to be in a movie. It was supposed to take 45 days and it took a year. The company that was releasing our product in England went out of business and there was no distributing going on in America either. If I had been with a big company at that time, the flow of product would have been continual.

"So after the movie, I went to London and negotiated with CBS, which means I'm on Epic in the United States. I signed right after Christmas and by February I was on the charts in England again with 'Stir It Up,' which was written by Bob Marley, one of the top Jamaican artists."

Nash first went to Jamaica in 1962, loved the place and the music right away but only started incorporating it in his own music writing in 1967, with "Hold Me Tight."

"The music of Jamaica sounds like my album. ('I Can See Clearly Now,' No. 64 on the Nov. 11 chart and climbing fast.) Well, the album modifies it. Most of the rhythms were cut by one of the top Jamaican bands. Then we cut strings and horns to go with it in London. The title tune was cut in Jamaica. We cut six there and the rest in London. The next album is cut already, all in London.

"I think it is safe to say that in Jamaica now you can get recording results as good as anywhere in the world.

"Jamaican music, when I can music. tuned in, was called ska. After that they called it rock steady. Now they call it reggae. It refers to the dance. The music is all the same, but a new dance is born every week with it."

Nash has a band now, for the first time in his life, five members from various parts of the West Indies and four from Ghana, whom he met in London. They're called the Sons of the Jungle, meaning the world is a jungle — so they're "sons of the world."

Three singles from the album have been hits in England, "I Can See Clearly Now," "Stir it Up" and "There Are More Questions than Answers." In the U.S. only the first has been a hit. What will be the next single? Nash says there is consideration at Epic of having it be "Stir it Up" or maybe "My Merry Go Round" from the upcoming album.

He says he is especially happy that his current success came, not when he was trying a change of direction but when he was doing what he's been doing the last several years — writing songs, influenced by Jamai-

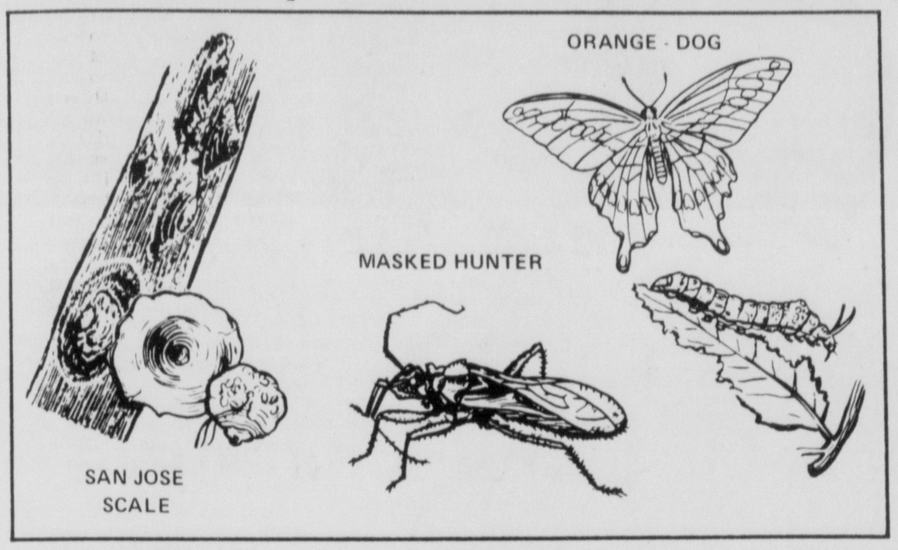
WANT ADS THE ACTION WAY!

4-H'ers Find Bugs Not Just Spiders and Flies



SPECIAL - What does an orange dog, San Jose scale and a masked hunter, have in common? They are insects! Just three of hundreds of species which 4-H members learn about in the national 4-H entomology program.

An orange dog is an insect whose larva feeds on orange trees and gives off a bad odor. San Jose scale disfigures fruits and kills trees. Masked hunters infest houses looking for bugs to eat, but they attack animals and humans with a painful bite and their larva attract dust.

Working in the national 4-H entomology program, sponsored by Hercules Incorporated, some 56,000 4-H members also learn about other strange sounding insects like wheat stem sawfly, shot-hole borers, plus common beetles, worms and flying insects.

Under supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, they learn how to look for, identify and control, all varieties of insects. And they use their knowledge to benefit others in their community. Like Sharon Kay Rogers, of Bailey, Miss., a 1971 national winner in the entomology program, who surveyed her town to discover if fire ants existed. The fire ant kills small animals like chickens and puppies and causes painful bites in humans and large animals.

Out of 202 surveys, the 4-H'ers found fire ants at all but one place. Using many methods, she alerted the community to the dangers caused by fire ants and informed state and federal agriculture officials of the danger. The fire ant is now being controlled in her community.

Other young people have used their knowledge in mosquito abatement programs, collecting insects for laboratories and exchanging specimens with teens around the world.

Learning about insects is fun and rewarding 4-H'ers say. They point to the recognition offered by Hercules including four medals of honor to outstanding members in each county, a $50 U.S. savings bond to a state winner and the opportunity to try for one of sixteen expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress.

At the national 4-H event in Chicago, Nov. 26-30, scholarships of $700 each will be awarded six national winners.

For interesting experiences in the 4-H entomology program, contact the county extension office.

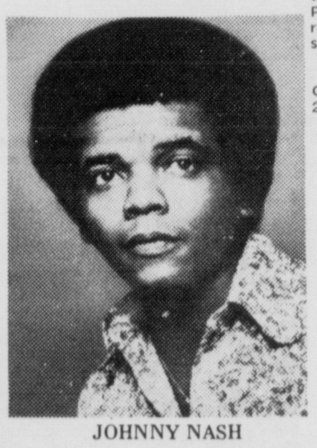
Nash Finally Hits Top via Jamaica

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer



JOHNNY NASH

Johnny Nash's song, which he wrote, sings and recorded in Jamaica, "I Can See Clearly Now," went to No. 2 on the best-selling record chart on Nov. 11. "It's the biggest hit of my whole life," Nash says, his eyes sparkling. "Every time you go in a recording studio you're hoping that this is a hit, let alone No. 1.

"I've been going into studios now I guess 10 years. You see so many records become No. 1 but not yours and you start to wonder, 'What is a No. 1 record and do I have one in me?' This just gives you courage."

Nash, who is 32, has been professionally in show business more than half his life. At 16 he left his home in Houston for New York to be a regular on the Arthur Godfrey Show. At 16 also he has his first "mildly successful record," "A Very Special Love." During seven years with Godfrey, Nash continued to record and was in some movies.

When the contract with ABC-Paramount ran out, "I went with Warner Brothers for a minute, RCA for a minute and Chess for a few seconds. I think it was basically me; I was in search for something. It wasn't really happening. Certain songs would come up and I would think how I'd like to do them but between the inception and the finished product it never seemed to jell, for various reasons.

"I decided to produce my own records. I came up with 'Let's Move and Groove Together,' which I wrote and put out on Joda, my own label. It was a top 5 rhythm 'n' blues record for me but it wasn't as big as 'A Very Special Love,' which had gone pop.

"Then I came up with 'Hold Me Tight.' I think it went top 3 nationally pop and sold around 6 or 700,000, but r and b stations wouldn't play it. It was on Jad, which I owned with a partner.

"I tell you the truth, I was trying to figure it out, why some songs would be played on pop stations and some on rhythm 'n' blues stations, but if one played it the other wouldn't. I couldn't tell any difference in the songs. I was caught up in that for years. It has been one of my biggest problems.

"I did 'Cupid,' which was a Sam Cooke tune, about three years ago. He was my favorite. He influenced me a lot, since early gospel days.

"After 'Cupid,' I went to Sweden to be in a movie. It was supposed to take 45 days and it took a year. The company that was releasing our product in England went out of business and there was no distributing going on in America either. If I had been with a big company at that time, the flow of product would have been continual.

"So after the movie, I went to London and negotiated with CBS, which means I'm on Epic in the United States. I signed right after Christmas and by February I was on the charts in England again with 'Stir It Up,' which was written by Bob Marley, one of the top Jamaican artists."

Nash first went to Jamaica in 1962, loved the place and the music right away but only started incorporating it in his own music writing in 1967, with "Hold Me Tight."

"The music of Jamaica sounds like my album. ('I Can See Clearly Now,' No. 64 on the Nov. 11 chart and climbing fast.) Well, the album modifies it. Most of the rhythms were cut by one of the top Jamaican bands. Then we cut strings and horns to go with it in London. The title tune was cut in Jamaica. We cut six there and the rest in London. The next album is cut already, all in London.

"I think it is safe to say that in Jamaica now you can get recording results as good as anywhere in the world.

"Jamaican music, when I tuned in, was called ska. After that they called it rock steady. Now they call it reggae. It refers to the dance. The music is all the same, but a new dance is born every week with it."

Nash has a band now, for the first time in his life, five members from various parts of the West Indies and four from Ghana, whom he met in London. They're called the Sons of the Jungle, meaning the world is a jungle — so they're "sons of the world."

Three singles from the album have been hits in England, "I Can See Clearly Now," "Stir it Up" and "There Are More Questions than Answers." In the U.S. only the first has been a hit. What will be the next single? Nash says there is consideration at Epic of having it be "Stir it Up" or maybe "My Merry Go Round" from the upcoming album.

He says he is especially happy that his current success came, not when he was trying a change of direction but when he was doing what he's been doing the last several years — writing songs, influenced by Jamaican music.

The Rev. S.P. Brite and Mrs. Brite arrived in Sikeston Tuesday from Laramie, Wyo., where they have been for the past two years. Rev. Brite will preach in the Baptist Church that he helped build.

C.F. Bruton is in Columbia where he will be thankful for the dinner that Mrs. Bruton will prepare for him.

Mrs. C.D. Matthews, jr., Mrs. E.C. Matthews and Mrs. J.L. Matthews entertained the teachers of the Sikeston schools with a dinner at the home of Mrs. D.C. Matthews, jr. Friday.

Chris Andres, for many years engaged in the butcher business in this city, but now of Cypress, Ill., came the first of the week for a visit with the family of his brother, John Andres. John E. Andres, son of Chris, a lad of 18, was cut in two by falling against a circular saw in Cypress about three weeks ago. This was truly a shocking death.

Rondo, AAF Navigation School, Rondo, Tex.-- One of several resident San Antonians to receive promotion to the rank of first lieutenant is Lt. Arnold P. Bowman, son of Mrs. Margaret Bowman, 300 North street, Sikeston.

Every man, woman and child in Scott County, will be asked to co- operate in a county- wide test blackout on December 14 at 10 p.m.

The season's first snowfall of sufficient proportions to cover the ground put in its appearance on Thursday as most Sikeston residents were going to work.

Miss Sue Bertha has been promoted from stenographer for the Unemployment Compensation to junior employment deputy for the Employment Service. Replacing her at the stenographic post is Miss Freda Mae Bryant, former Sikestonian, who has worked more than a year for the Commission at Jefferson City.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barnwell of Sikeston at the Delta Community Hospital on the second.

John Stout, All—Conference half back from Poplar Bluff, wound up the football season with 14 points against Cape Central and that was just enough to pass Jackson's Truman Blackman for the conference scoring title. Tom Dunaway, Sikeston hard running halfback, ended up in a fifth place tie with Tom Brennecke of Central. Also ranking high in the scoring were Nickens and Baker. Dale Joyce was the leading extra point kicker in the conference with 19 conversions.

A former resident of Sikeston, Ruby L. Jackson 68, died from a heart attack yesterday at his home in Cairo, Ill., where he had resided for the past 24 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Clark of Matthews are parents of a baby boy born on the third.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shephard of Wardell Tuesday at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Dear Charles:

Congratulations to all of you on being designated a "National Blue Ribbon Newspaper."

I know you are all proud of this honor, which is certainly well deserved — and quite a signal honor, too, since I notice from the article in the Standard that only 144 papers received such designation this year.

Best wishes to all of you, and a special hello to your father.

Sincerely,

SHOWBEAT

Newhart Has Fingers Crossed

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(N E A)—The jury is still out on whether or not The Bob Newhart Show will be a hit on CBS. Newhart hopes it is because he doesn't feel like dropping $100,000 for nothing.

He's figured out that it's cost him that much in canceled nightclub bookings to do the show. Anytime a man turns his back on $100,000 he'd like it to be for a good cause.

"I didn't take the show for the money," he says. "I took it for the long-term investment."

He's finding it tough in one area. He has to memorize a whole mess of lines. In his nightclub act he just sort of talks it. He's been doing it so long it's all second nature. But on the TV show he has lines to learn and he has to stick pretty close to what's in the script.

He says at first he pasted them up on convenient spots on the set — behind chairs, on the back of lamps, anywhere the camera wouldn't show them. But he found that looked kind of awkward. He'd be supposed to be talking to his costar Suzanne Pleshette and on the screen there he'd be, talking to the back of a lamp. So now he's doing it the hard way—committing every line to memory.

On the set he's not above a little kidding around. When the director Alan Rafkin suggested he back up a hair, he pulled out a hair from his head and backed up.

Later, Rafkin focused on Marcia Wallace, who plays his receptionist, and Newhart, with mock sarcasm, said, "If I'm getting in Marcia's picture, just tell me."

But he had his lines memorized. He'd check with the script girl—"Is that right, Rosemary?"—and 9 times out of 11, he was right.

It's not like his nightclub act. There he can play around. He has his stock bits and he tells them in whatever order he thinks will suit a particular audience.

"It's like going down a long corridor with many doors leading off it," he says. "Sometimes I walk straight through, sometimes I take one side door, sometimes another."

Here, though, he's trapped by the script. So far, he's enjoying it and he thinks the show is coming together. There's one big plus. He's home most of the time and spends more time with his family.

For one member of the Newhart clan—Robert, 9—the series has another big plus. Young Robert is a big fan of the reruns of I Dream of Jeannie, the Barbara Eden series. One of the stars of that show was Bill Daily, and Daily is now on Newhart's show.

"He thinks it's great," Bob says, "that his Daddy can introduce him to Bill Daily."

Newhart says one of the big drawbacks is the all-too-real problem of raising children while being a celebrity.

"Timmy, who is 5, goes up to people in supermarkets," Bob says, "and says, 'My Daddy has a TV show.' He knows his Daddy is different from other Daddys, from the lawyers and the garagemen.

"But we're aware of the problem and trying to do something about it. I think being aware of it is half the battle. It's part of the price you pay for being a star."

Newhart is a family man. One of the big things in his life is the every-Monday-night dinner out with the whole crowd—his wife, Ginny, and his two sons and little Jennifer, 1½.

"They don't like to see us coming," Bob says. "It's a little bit noisy with the Newharts there. So we go to a different restaurant each week. That way, we divide up the disaster."

Bob Newhart and Suzanne Pleshette

A TV drawback—"the all-too-real problem of raising children while being a celebrity."

Gina behind camera

ROME (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida has switched from posing for photographs to taking them.

Neglecting her acting career almost entirely for three years, the Italian film star used thousands of rolls of film to photograph her country. Her findings will be published in a book entitled "Italia Mia," a picture book of 200 black and white photograhs.

Miss Lollobrigida says she traveled incognito all over Italy to take her pictures. She disguised herself by using two prune pits to fill out her cheeks and wearing a wig.

"After a while I changed the pits for two buttons. My mouth was getting sore," she said.

The actress confessed that she had spent "a fortune" pursuing her favorite hobby.

She also said she had worn out a car and two cameras in the process.

Gina is not abandoning her film career but she says "in films I am not my own boss; with photograhs I can say what I want."

Gina's book emphasizes the human and humorous — a family of four riding to the beach on one motorscooter, the director of the Bank of Italy staring into an empty safe, a Neapolitan kneeling down and making a superstitious gesture to protect himself as a hearse drives by.

She also has landscapes and city views.

The Prayer

from the Upper Room

A little child shall lead them (Isaiah 11:6)

PRAYER: Our Father, with grateful hearts we turn to Thee again this Christman time. May we always keep Thee at the center of our lives. Amen.

Goals panel to meet

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Goals for Missouri calling for a wide range of improvements in government, health and education will be hammered out at a meeting of the Missouri Goals Commission in Jefferson City Thursday.

The final draft will be presented to the legislature, covering recommendations to meet needs and problems all over the state.

In the field of government, the preliminary report recommends consolidation of local government units on fire and police protection, tax collection and assessment, road and street maintenance, revision of the tax structure to provide a more equitable system and new sources of revenue to relieve the overburned property tax.

Improved health service in rural areas is recommended, along with the licensing of paramedical personnel to serve areas where doctors and medical facilities are scarce.

What's the law?

The case of the shaky druggist

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Stanley was feeling shaky as a pair of dice and decided that he had better go to see a doctor. And at the conclusion of his examination, the doctor gave him two prescriptions. One was for "internal use only" and the other for "external use only." the druggist who filed the prescriptions, however, was almost as shaky as Stanley. The result? He inadvertently reversed the labels on the prescriptions.

About a week later, the druggist, somewhat embarrassed discovered his error. Without ado, he telephoned Stanley and informed him of the "slight" mistake. Stanley, in turn, having already consumed more than half of the bottle which had been erroneously labeled for internal use, clutched his throat and mumbled something about being a dead man.

In fact, he was convinced that he was going to die at any moment. Actually, his fears were premature. He was as healthy as an Olympic gold— medal winner and the medicine he had consumed was perfectly harmless. But, there was one side effect of the mixup for Which Stanley sued the druggist for damages.

"Because he carelessly mislabeled the prescriptions," Stanley complained in court, "I developed an ulcer from worrying that I might die. And I might just have well have died considering the diet I had to follow for a long time thereafter."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the shaky druggist pay Stanley for his ulcer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Stanley's ulcer did not develop as a result of the druggist's carelessness in mislabeling the prescriptions. Rather, noted the judge, the ulcer developed from Stanley's being told that the bottles had been mislabeled.

Rondo, AAF Navigation School, Rondo, Tex.-- One of several resident San Antonians to receive promotion to the rank of first lieutenant is Lt. Arnold P. Bowman, son of Mrs. Margaret Bowman, 300 North street, Sikeston.

Every man, woman and child in Scott County, will be asked to co- operate in a county- wide test blackout on December 14 at 10 p.m.

The season's first snowfall of sufficient proportions to cover the ground put in its appearance on Thursday as most Sikeston residents were going to work.

Miss Sue Bertha has been promoted from stenographer for the Unemployment Compensation to junior employment deputy for the Employment Service. Replacing her at the stenographic post is Miss Freda Mae Bryant, former Sikestonian, who has worked more than a year for the Commission at Jefferson City.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barnwell of Sikeston at the Delta Community Hospital on the second.

John Stout, All—Conference half back from Poplar Bluff, wound up the football season with 14 points against Cape Central and that was just enough to pass Jackson's Truman Blackman for the conference scoring title. Tom Dunaway, Sikeston hard running halfback, ended up in a fifth place tie with Tom Brennecke of Central. Also ranking high in the scoring were Nickens and Baker. Dale Joyce was the leading extra point kicker in the conference with 19 conversions.

A former resident of Sikeston, Ruby L. Jackson 68, died from a heart attack yesterday at his home in Cairo, Ill., where he had resided for the past 24 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Clark of Matthews are parents of a baby boy born on the third.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shephard of Wardell Tuesday at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Charles:

Congratulations to all of you on being designated a "National Blue Ribbon Newspaper."

I know you are all proud of this honor, which is certainly well deserved — and quite a signal honor, too, since I notice from the article in the Standard that only 144 papers received such designation this year.

Best wishes to all of you, and a special hello to your father.

Sincerely,

SHOWBEAT

Newhart Has Fingers Crossed

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(N E A)—The jury is still out on whether or not The Bob Newhart Show will be a hit on CBS. Newhart hopes it is because he doesn't feel like dropping $100,000 for nothing.

He's figured out that it's cost him that much in canceled nightclub bookings to do the show. Anytime a man turns his back on $100,000 he'd like it to be for a good cause.

"I didn't take the show for the money," he says. "I took it for the long-term investment."

He's finding it tough in one area. He has to memorize a whole mess of lines. In his nightclub act he just sort of talks it. He's been doing it so long it's all second nature. But on the TV show he has lines to learn and he has to stick pretty close to what's in the script.

He says at first he pasted them up on convenient spots on the set — behind chairs, on the back of lamps, anywhere the camera wouldn't show them. But he found that looked kind of awkward. He'd be supposed to be talking to his costar Suzanne Pleshette and on the screen there he'd be, talking to the back of a lamp. So now he's doing it the hard way—committing every line to memory.

On the set he's not above a little kidding around. When the director Alan Rafkin suggested he back up a hair, he pulled out a hair from his head and backed up.

Later, Rafkin focused on Marcia Wallace, who plays his receptionist, and Newhart, with mock sarcasm, said, "If I'm getting in Marcia's picture, just tell me."

But he had his lines memorized. He'd check with the script girl—"Is that right, Rosemary?"—and 9 times out of 11, he was right.

It's not like his nightclub act. There he can play around. He has his stock bits and he tells them in whatever order he thinks will suit a particular audience.

"It's like going down a long corridor with many doors leading off it," he says. "Sometimes I walk straight through, sometimes I take one side door, sometimes another."

Here, though, he's trapped by the script. So far, he's enjoying it and he thinks the show is coming together. There's one big plus. He's home most of the time and spends more time with his family.

For one member of the Newhart clan—Robert, 9—the series has another big plus. Young Robert is a big fan of the reruns of I Dream of Jeannie, the Barbara Eden series. One of the stars of that show was Bill Daily, and Daily is now on Newhart's show.

"He thinks it's great," Bob says, "that his Daddy can introduce him to Bill Daily."

Newhart says one of the big drawbacks is the all-too-real problem of raising children while being a celebrity.

"Timmy, who is 5, goes up to people in supermarkets," Bob says, "and says, 'My Daddy has a TV show.' He knows his Daddy is different from other Daddys, from the lawyers and the garagemen.

"But we're aware of the problem and trying to do something about it. I think being aware of it is half the battle. It's part of the price you pay for being a star."

Newhart is a family man. One of the big things in his life is the every-Monday-night dinner out with the whole crowd—his wife, Ginny, and his two sons and little Jennifer, $1\frac{1}{2}$.

"They don't like to see us coming," Bob says. "It's a little bit noisy with the Newharts there. So we go to a different restaurant each week. That way, we divide up the disaster."

Gina behind camera

ROME (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida has switched from posing for photographs to taking them.

Neglecting her acting career almost entirely for three years, the Italian film star used thousands of rolls of film to photograph her country. Her findings will be published in a book entitled "Italia Mia," a picture book of 200 black and white photograhs.

Miss Lollobrigida says she traveled incognito all over Italy to take her pictures. She disguised herself by using two prune pits to fill out her cheeks and wearing a wig.

"After a while I changed the pits for two buttons. My mouth was getting sore," she said.

The actress confessed that she had spent "a fortune" pursuing her favorite hobby.

She also said she had worn out a car and two cameras in the process.

Gina is not abandoning her film career but she says "in films I am not my own boss; with photograhs I can say what I want."

Gina's book emphasizes the human and humorous — a family of four riding to the beach on one motorscooter, the director of the Bank of Italy staring into an empty safe, a Neapolitan kneeling down and making a superstitious gesture to protect himself as a hearse drives by.

She also has landscapes and city views.

Goals panel to meet

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Goals for Missouri calling for a wide range of improvements in government, health and education will be hammered out at a meeting of the Missouri Goals Commission in Jefferson City Thursday.

The final draft will be presented to the legislature, covering recommendations to meet needs and problems all over the state.

In the field of government, the preliminary report recommends consolidation of local government units on fire and police protection, tax collection and assessment, road and street maintenance, revision of the tax structure to provide a more equitable system and new sources of revenue to relieve the overburned property tax.

Improved health service in rural areas is recommended, along with the licensing of paramedical personnel to serve areas where doctors and medical facilities are scarce.

What's the law?

The case of the shaky druggist

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Stanley was feeling shaky as a pair of dice and decided that he had better go to see a doctor. And at the conclusion of his examination, the doctor gave him two prescriptions. One was for "internal use only" and the other for "external use only." the druggist who filed the prescriptions, however, was almost as shaky as Stanley. The result? He inadvertently reversed the labels on the prescriptions.

About a week later, the druggist, somewhat embarrassed discovered his error. Without ado, he telephoned Stanley and informed him of the "slight" mistake. Stanley, in turn, having already consumed more than half of the bottle which had been erroneously labeled for internal use, clutched his throat and mumbled something about being a dead man.

In fact, he was convinced that he was going to die at any moment. Actually, his fears were premature. He was as healthy as an Olympic gold— medal winner and the medicine he had consumed was perfectly harmless. But, there was one side effect of the mixup for Which Stanley sued the druggist for damages.

"Because he carelessly mislabeled the prescriptions," Stanley complained in court, "I developed an ulcer from worrying that I might die. And I might just have well have died considering the diet I had to follow for a long time thereafter."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the shaky druggist pay Stanley for his ulcer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Stanley's ulcer did not develop as a result of the druggist's carelessness in mislabeling the prescriptions. Rather, noted the judge, the ulcer developed from Stanley's being told that the bottles had been mislabeled.

Council Okays Arvin site funds

DEXTER — The City Council ratified a resolution extending a letter of intent to Arvin Industries stating that the city will pay up to $100,000 for site improvements at the Arvin location west of Dexter.

The council accepted a low bid of $1,727 submitted by Medler- Davis for the new 1973 pickup truck to be purchased for the city water department.

Mayor Willis Conners urged council members to attend the sanitary landfill meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 12 in Bloomfield court.

The council approved a proposal to give all city employes a Christmas bonus and to give payroll checks early in December.

Robert Barr of Dexter was given the job of restretching the carpet in the city administrative building where needed. This will cost the city $250.

The council passed a resolution to place a stop sign and a flashing light at the beginning of each side of the railroad track on Locust Street. The total cost to the city will be $250.

Total disbursements of $149,714.54 were approved by the council for the month of November.

After the council meeting Firechief Al Banken invited members of the council to the fire station to view the new firetruck recently purchased. He also reported that a training school will be held Tuesday night to instruct all firemen on operations of the new equipment on the fire truck.

Sikeston area resident who is considering opening a landfill in the area, said the council would have to consider helping the landfill owner by making the site the mandatory drop point for all garbage collected in the city. A landfill site cannot survive, he said, if it has competition from other dumping sites.

Patrick operated a disposal service in South St. Louis County from 1957 until selling it recently. He is now considering moving back to the Sikeston area and operating a landfill in Scott County.

In other action, City Manager Jim Huff said he has been notified that the city's first revenue sharing check, around $99,000, will be received later this week or early next week.

The council reappointed James Bucher to the housing authority board for a four-year term.

The council voted to give the city's 70 employes a Christmas bonus, a choice of either a ham or a turkey.

The council approved the building of a 72-unit apartment complex on South West Street, the resubdivision of the Comstock addition on Indiana Street and the subdivision of Unit 8 of Town and Country Addition with an extension of Cambridge Drive.
